'I SOUGHT ONLY TO PREVENT TROUBLE.'

DYING BOY'S STORY

Companion Corroborates Statement of Cunningham, Shot by a "Breaker."

Michael J. Cunningham, union teamster, in a dying declaration made through the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day, says that while doing his utmost to prevent trouble he was shot without provocation by a strike-breaker.

His story is corroborated by Patrick Stanton, who was with Cunningham on Wednesday night when the shot was fired that will cause the young teamster's death, according to the latest bulletins given out by City Hospital surgeons.

"Cunningham was shot down in cold blood," declared Stanton. Stanton told this story to the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

PULLS GUN AT COMMAND.

"Cunningham never said a word to any one of those fellows. He is the boss where I work, and he came home with me that night when we were through for the day. I called his attention to the strike-breakers and recognized one of them.

"I got down and started to speak to the fellow and they turned and started to run. Evidently they were afraid that something would happen to them, for there were two or three of our fellows around.

"One of the yelled at the other, 'get out your gun.' The gun was pointed at me and the man fired. Then I started to run.

"All this time Cunningham was on the sidewalk. Not a word did he say to any one of the strike-breakers.

Cried Out "I'm Shot."

"I heard another shot, and turning round saw Mike lying in the street. One of the strike-breakers was just putting the gun in his pocket. Mike said, 'I'm shot, Pat.' The other men came up, and I turned and pointed out the man who had done the shooting to a police officer."

All night long the parents of Michael Cunningham, his fiancee, Miss Annie Richardson; his brother Matthew and his sister Mary watched beside the boy's bed in the City Hospital. They were told by the surgeons that there was only the slightest, if, indeed, there was any chance, that the young man would live. Internal hemorrhages, the surgeons said, would cause his death.

To Matthew Cunningham and Miss Richardson Michael told for the first time his story of what occurred on the night when he was shot down by one of the imported strike-breakers. This is his story, made public by them through the BOSTON AMERICAN:

ON THE WAY TO PUT UP HORSES

"All day Wednesday I hadn't seen any signs of trouble until we saw those strike-breakers on A street when we were on our way home. We were pretty busy and we didn't have any time to see what other people were doing.

"I started home with one of the drivers. There were two other fellows on the team. We were on our way to Glover's stable to put up the horses. I stood beside the driver and the others were back of me.

"I didn't see anything particular until we came to A street. Then the driver suddenly said to me, 'there goes three of those strikebreakers.' He pointed out the men. Then he said 'I'm going to get down and follow them.'

Sought Only to Avert Trouble.

"He passed the reins to me and got down from the team. I saw him go up to the three men and I heard him say something about wages. It seemed to me as though there might be trouble happen, and I thought maybe I could stop it. I passed the reins to one of the young fellows on the team with me and jumped down.

"When I jumped off that team I did not intend to make a move against any one of those men. I knew how much trouble there had been on the streets about there since the strike began, and my idea was to keep the other man out of it. That was what I tried to do and I never made one move against those strike-breakers.

"Just as I jumped down I saw the other man hit one of the strike-breakers and start for another man. All at once one of the fellows who was walking ahead of the other two strike-breakers and the one of the three against whom no move was made, pulled out his pistol and fired at the man who had struck the other strike-breaker. The bullet missed.

"The man he fired at ran on to the coal wharf of the Boston Wharf Company. I ran after him and then the second shot came.

"I felt the awful shock in my back and the burn and then I went down. I remember lying in the street a long time it seemed to me. It appeared to me to be at least twenty minutes. Then I became unconscious and that is all I remember until I found myself here.

"I didn't take any part in the trouble, against the strike-breakers at all. I did not make a move against any one of them and I want mother to know that when I got off that team it was just to prevent trouble. I knew all about the trouble that some of those fellows had had on the streets and I didn't want any of our boys mixed up in it. That is why I got down from the team.

Anarchy in Boston Streets

This shooting of Boston citizens by strike-breakers imported from New York is becoming altogether too common. If the same amount of shooting had been done by the strikers, the troops would have been ordered out and Massachusetts militiamen would be driving non-union wagons through the streets.

There is a law against carrying concealed weapons, but the police apparently are doing nothing to enforce this law.

In other cities the police are having no difficulty in arresting scores and hundreds of men who are carrying concealed weapons.

It is a simple matter to find out whether a man is carrying a revolver in his hip pocket. Every policeman knows how to ascertain that fact, without arresting the man and subjecting him to a search.

If the police want to enforce the law they can do it.

WHY DON'T THEY?

Is there one kind of law enforcement for strikers and another for strike-breakers?

A Great Naval Demonstration in Hampton Roads Marks Beginning of Celebration—Roosevelt Greets Representatives of All Nations.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION, April 26.—By the hand of the President, amid the acclaim of the world's diplomats, and before the greatest naval display and military pageant in history, the Jamestown Exposition was opened to-day.

The guns of all nations saluted the Union and the flags of the world were unfurled to the breeze, a gorgeous tribute of colors to the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the first permanent settlement of English speaking people in this hemisphere.

President Roosevelt greeted the representatives of the world in a speech following the formal opening of the great fair.

It was a notable fact that amid the booming of the guns, the gigantic strength of the warships and beneath the Stars and Stripes, the banner of the country that was cradled in war, the dominant note was one making for peace.

Of the enthusiasm of the occasion words can give no adequate idea. When the sun rose the people of the surrounding country were informed of the birth of the eventful day by the firing of a salute of 300 guns. When the Mayflower, bearing the President and his party, entered Hampton Roads the United States and foreign warships fired their salutes.

When the President touched the golden button on the reviewing stand that set the wheels of the big fair in motion and unfurled 1,000 star-spangled banners, a third thunderous salute burst forth from the guns of Fortress Monroe and the cannon of the assembled navies of the earth.

Thousands Throng Grounds.

It was a holiday in Norfolk and the surrounding towns and cities. From these cities, decked from pavement to highest roof with bunting and banners, thousands and thousands of people flocked to the exposition grounds, thronging every street and path. Every boat and vessel was pressed into service.

On sea and on land alike there was cheering incessantly, with a waving of hats and clapping of hands.

Of the number present at the opening, no close estimate can be made as yet. Some say there are 250,000 people here to-day. The incompleteness of the buildings did not dampen the crowd's ardor. There was too much to see. The supreme moment of the day came when the President of the United States, flanked and surrounded by the great officials of this country and the accredited representatives of all the other nations on earth, saw the soldiers and seamen of the countries of civilization march along Lee's parade past the reviewing stand.

Such a sight has not come to Virginian eye since the horrors of the Civil War. The crowds went wild with cheering, and the reviewing stand, filled with the gold lace of diplomacy and the black coats of the dignitaries of this country relieved by the bright gowns of fair woman, was swept by a storm of enthusiasm and cheering.

President's Party Lands.

The President and his party arrived in the harbor at 8 o'clock. The inspection or review of the warships was begun, the Mayflower passing down the entire line of the navies. The party disembarked from the Mayflower and, followed by cheering thousands, proceeded from the northwest corner of the grounds, Discovery Landing, to the reviewing stand at Lee's Parade. There the following program was carried out as had been arranged:

Opening prayer by the Right Rev. Alfred Magill Randolph, bishop of the diocese of Southern Virginia.

Address and introduction of the President of the United States by Hon. Harry St. George Tucker, president of the exposition company.

Address by the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States.

Formal opening of the exposition by the President of the United States.

Immediately upon the landing of the presidential party at the Discovery Landing they took carriages and went to the reviewing stand.

Reviews Monster Parade.

A military escort consisting of one troop of the twelfth cavalry rode ahead of the President's carriage on each side of which was detailed a non-commissioned officer. The customary secret service protection was afforded the President and the companies of the Coast artillery from Fortress Monroe, together with the entire twenty-third infantry, formed a military cordon along the entire route from the landing to the reviewing stand. Immediately following the pressing of the button the President reviewed the parade of which General Frederick Dent Grant, commanding the department of the East and commander-in-chief of all military forces at the Tercentennial is the grand marshal.

The troops assembled on Powhatan and Pocahontas streets and fell into line at the command and marched south on Commonwealth avenue, east to the eastern end of "Lee's parade," where they turned due west, crossing that magnificent drill plain in front of the reviewing stand, saluting the President as they passed. Coming out on Commonwealth avenue, west, the parade proceeded around Lee's parade to Spottswood circle, thence around the State exhibit palace until they came back to Commonwealth avenue, where the marchers disbanded.

The formation of the parade was as follows:

1—General Frederick Dent Grant, accompanied by his staff.
2—The Fourth Artillery Band from Fort Monroe.
3—Eight companies of British seamen and marines.
4—Two companies of German seamen.
5—One company of Brazilian seamen.
6—One company of Chilian marines.
7—One company of Argentine seamen.
8—One company of Swedish marines.

QUINCY DENOUNCES BROKER IN BOND THEFT

Former Mayor Josiah Quincy, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the scheme to steal $1,000,000 worth of bonds from the Trust Company of America, of New York, as possible counsel in the case, to-day employed counsel to look after his interests in the matter.

The lawyer whom the former mayor has brought to his assistance is Colonel William A. Gaston. Mr. Quincy said that he would issue a statement later in the day that would make clear his position.

Mr. Quincy emphatically declared that all he knew about the matter was that he had been asked to represent the two men now under arrest in New York, and who, it is claimed, stole $750,000 of gilt-edged securities, and that he had refused flatly to have anything to do with the case.

The two men under arrest are Oliver M. Dennett, formerly of State street, Boston, and William O. Douglass, a loan clerk in the employ of the Trust company.

Dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN from New York say that Mr. Quincy indignantly declined and denounced the thieves.

Evidence in Floor.

By ripping up the floor in the offices of Oliver M. Dennett in No. 42 Wall street, detectives yesterday found evidence pointing to a Boston man who engineered the scheme to loot the Trust Company of America.

They also learned much about the operations of Dennett, and of W. O. Douglass, the loan clerk who is in the Tombs charged with stealing $250,000 in bonds from the vaults.

Coincident with this discovery, a detective was dispatched to Boston to investigate the recent career of the suspected man, and announcement was made that subpoenas will be issued to-day for several persons to appear before the grand jury.

Startling disclosures were made proving that the speculations of W. O. Douglass, assistant loan clerk of the Trust Company of America, reached nearly $750,000, instead of $250,000, the maximum loss admitted.

Douglass is now shown to have had ideas of acquiring sudden wealth which entitle him to rank as a Napoleon of "high finance," instead of a simple-minded clerk who tried to cover petty losses by petty pilfering of the securities to which he had access.

Took $400,000 Bonds.

By his own confession, the facts of which were made known last night by a disgruntled director, Douglass took with him negotiable securities valued at $400,000, when he left the loan cage Saturday last, saying he was going to lunch.

Sunday morning Robert Honey, formerly assistant district attorney, who has offices at No. 82 Nassau street, appeared for Douglass. Mr. Honey is Ex-Mayor Quincy's brother-in-law, and a son of former Lieutenant-Governor Honey, of Rhode Island.

The trust company officials and their various co-investigators were as close-mouthed as ever, and put in one of the busiest days they have spent since the original discovery that the trust company had been robbed.

As a result of their work it is not improbable that papers will be prepared for the arrest of a Boston man whose name has not yet been mentioned, but who is believed to be the actual man "higher up."

'Strike-Breaker 882' Tells of War on Teamsters' Union

Boston American Reporter, Disguised, Hired Among Those to Break Big Strike.

The following account of the treatment received by the men employed to fight the union teamsters is the personal experience of a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter who, by a ruse, hired out as a strike breaker:

By Strikebreaker 882.

"Go over to New York. Hire out as a strike-breaker and describe conditions as you find them for the AMERICAN readers."

With these simple and brief instructions from the city editor I left Boston at midnight Monday, determined to enroll myself if possible in the vast army which Waddell & Mahon, the strike-breaking firm of New York had declared their proposed sending to Boston to break the teamsters' strike.

The actual enlistment in the forces of the strike-breakers was much easier than I had imagined. I had provided myself with some frayed and tattered garments, and when I sought the office of Waddell & Mahon Tuesday afternoon in a drizzling rain I prided myself that I presented the appearance of a hard-luck individual—down and out—as most of the seekers of this class of work are.

At Their Headquarters.

The headquarters of the strike-breaking firm are on the tenth floor of the St. James building, at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-sixth street. It was there that I first presented myself and informed a ruddy-faced office boy I was looking for work.

"We don't hire nobody here," he said in answer to my query. "You want to go over to No. 103 East Twenty-sixth street and they'll give you a job there."

The reason for the two offices, I afterward found out, was because the other tenants of the St. James building, one of the most modern of Gotham's office structures, objected to the class of people to which the firm appeals, and remonstrated against them frequenting the building.

Accordingly I sought the employment office of the firm on Twenty-sixth street. These headquarters are in a brick building within the shadow of Madison Square Garden and almost fronting on Madison square. It is a small three-story building, outwardly of decidedly imposing appearance, with massive pillars ornamented with electric lights guarding the entrance. From all of the windows of the second floor heads were sticking, and about the doorway little groups of men were gathered, smoking and chatting about the experiences they expected to meet upon their arrival in Boston.

Roughly Handled at Offices.

As I crossed over the street to the building, one of the men gathered on the sidewalk shouted:

"Oh, boys, look who's here! Here's another," and this sally was the cause of loud guffaws and bursts of laughter.

I walked boldly up to a large, portly individual at the door and was just about to ask for employment, when he grasped me roughly by the shoulders, pushed me out on to the steps and brusquely demanded that I show my card.

I replied that I had no card, that I was looking for work and was prepared to go to Boston. With this explanation his manner changed entirely, and he said in rather kindly tone:

"Oh, you saw the ad." The ad to which he referred was one which the firm has been inserting in the New York newspapers, offering remunerative employment to teamsters and drivers, with food, lodging and transportation free, if the applicant was willing to work in an open shop. It is in answer to this ad that the majority of the strike-breaking teamsters are secured.

I told him frankly that I had not seen any ad, but that I had heard they were hiring men to go to Boston. Without any further questioning he pulled me into the doorway and turned me over to a much younger man, whom I afterward learned was Theodore Nilgers, an employe who signs all of the New York strike-breakers.

Becomes Strike-Breaker 882.

Nilgers asked me my age, whether or not I could drive, and if so how many horses. I replied that I was prepared to handle a single horse and that I had had some experience as a teamster. He pulled a large bunch of typewritten contracts out of his pocket and, bidding me follow him, led the way up a dingy stairway to a small room furnished only with a chair and a table.

"Sign this," he said, as he thrust one of the typewritten sheets before me. I picked up the paper and started to read it.

"Come on, come on," he said petulantly, "we haven't got all day to stay here, and this ain't no reading room."

I protested that I would like to know what I was putting my signature to, and Nilgers said:

"Thats' all right, you can read it bye and bye." I saw that an argument would be futile, and I picked up the pen and rather reluctantly affixed my signature to the paper. Not before I had seen, however, that the contract said that unless I worked thirty days in Boston the amount of my passage to Boston would be deducted from whatever I would earn.

This clause in the contract is something which few of the strike-breakers study closely enough to understand and, as I have found out, is the cause of much of the grumbling and dissension among the men after they arrive in Boston. So I hired out as Jerry Cass, strike-breaker No. 882, at a salary of $2 per day.

Contract Not Binding.

The contract, as far as I could make out, was not worth more than the paper it was written on, as far as binding those who signed it. It cited the scale of wages which would be paid, the obligation of the company to feed and lodge those who hired out for the work and to give free transportation to Boston, etc.

The contract signed, Nilgers took from his pocket a blank card upon which he wrote the date, the fact that I drove one heavy wagon, and my number. This card he signed and passed to me, with the instruction that I report at 3 o'clock prepared to go to Boston.

As I was leaving the building, the stout man who greeted me first said: "You know this is a strike job, but there's plenty of cops in Boston and it's a cinch."

The one fact that impressed itself upon me most forcibly in the entire proceeding up to that time was the ease with which it was possible to secure the position.

As far as I could see, there was nothing to prevent Sing Sing convicts and other jailbirds from securing jobs, and to satisfy myself I took up a station in front of the headquarters and watched closely those who went in seeking employment. Everybody that entered, some ten in all, was hired. There was no denying the fact that the strike-breaking firm was daily bringing into Boston a most undesirable element to fill positions where they handle thousands of dollars' worth of Boston freight.

Tough-Looking Crowd.

Promptly at 3 o'clock I was back at the headquarters. Nilgers and the stout individual were again at the door, but upon the presentation of my card I was promptly admitted. I went up the same dingy flight of stairs to the little room on the second floor front. Some fifty men were gathered there, most of them smoking and not a few half-stupid from intoxication. They were without doubt as hard a looking crowd of men as could be gathered together in the toughest section of the Bowery or the North or West Ends of Boston.

A few had gunny sacks and dress suit cases, containing either a change of clothing or all of their earthly possessions, but the majority had either a small bundle wrapped up in a newspaper or nothing at all.

Of the twoscore men, not ten had overcoats. One or two wore overalls, but in the main they were attired in seedy coats and trousers. One or two who were dressed quite presentably, looking entirely out of place and made a strange contrast.

"What are you going to do, Billy?" one of the men said to me.

"Drive single," I replied.

"You're crazy," he said, laughing; "sign to drive four and get some money."

Inexperienced at the Job.

"But I never had any experience driving four horses, and I couldn't handle them," I said.

"Neither did I, but I told them I did; who in h—l will know the difference? If you can't do it when you get to Boston, put an egg in your shoe and beat it. Don't you see the game. Get wise, cull, get wise," he said with a laugh.

I told him that I would think it over when I got to Boston, and without any further ado he nudged me in the side and whispered to come out into the entry. I followed him, and in one of the dark corners of the entryway he pulled out a pint flask of whiskey.

"Help yourself," he said generously; "you're a good feller, and you don't know when you'll get a drink when you get in Boston." I told him that I would be delighted, only I had been on the water wagon for some time.

"Well, that's more for me, more for me," and suiting the action to the word he put the bottle to his lips and took a good-sized drink. Wiping his lips, he followed me quietly back to the room.

In the meantime others had been gradually coming in until the small room was packed to overflowing, and places to lean against on the wall were at a premium. Though we were due to start for Boston within half an hour, every few moments a new member would join the throng after making application at the door. Nilgers eyed all of these late comers very sharply, though they were subjected to no more minute questioning than I had been.

Foul Room Crowded.

The air in the room was suffocating, everybody was smoking cigarettes or pipes, and the windows were choked with men sitting on the sills, allowing little or no ventilation for those in the room. Very soon there came loud clamors from the men to start.

"Move the boat, move the boat; all aboard for Boston; what do yer say there?" a number of the ringleaders shouted. When it seemed as though everybody in the room would faint from the foul air, two men arrived from the Broadway office and stationing themselves in the hallway at the head of the stairs began to call out the numbers. Each man in turn answered to his number, and in bunches of ten they passed down to the street. Here they were taken in charge by one of the guards, who were to lead them to the Grand Central Station.

I was one of the last to be called, and after our squad had been mustered there were about a dozen left in the room who were without numbers, as they had not signed. These Nilgers bade follow him, and the formalities of signing were rapidly completed. It did not take five minutes to sign the twelve. None of them appeared to care what he was signing, all apparently being satisfied when told that they would be able to earn from $14 to $20 per week.

Braves Fair Woman's Scorn.

When everybody had been signed Nilgers said: "Now, boys, behave yourself and the company will use you all right. You'll get good food and good money, and there's enough cops in Boston ter look after yer." Nothing was said about band concerts on the Zealandia, burlesque shows or harbor trips to any of the men, and as far as I could find out none of these inducements had been offered to the men, the majority being content to sign with the prospect of getting fair wages and a place to eat and sleep. They did not know where they were going in Boston, and relied implicitly on the promises made by the employes of Waddell & Mahon.

Under the leadership of several of the men from the Broadway office we boarded a car at Fourth avenue and Twenty-sixth street for the Grand Central Station. As we entered the car I heard a stylishly-dressed matron observe in a stage whisper to her companion: "They ought to refuse to let such men inside a car. Such trash!" But despite the fair lady's apparent disgust we rode on the inside of the car, and in obedience to the instructions the majority on the car "stuck together and acted like gentlemen."

During a fifteen-minute wait in the waiting room of the station we were closely watched. In answer to the cries of many for something to eat, the guards informed us that we would be served coffee and sandwiches on the train, and that when we got into Boston we would get a "piping hot dinner." Assured by these promises, the demands for food ceased and the crowd settled back in the seats to await the word to move for the train. Some ten minutes later Charles Mack and another of Waddell & Mahon's guards came into the waiting-room and signalled us to get into line for the train. eW boarded a regular day coach on the 5 o'clock train for Boston for a distressing ride, disturbed constantly by the most riotous scenes that I have ever witnessed.

In to-morrow's AMERICAN will appear a continuation of "No. 882's" experiences in Boston.

COURT HEARING REVEALS PERIL OF HAULING DYNAMITE

The story of how a sixteen-year-old office boy and a strikebreaker, who says he is twenty-one years of age, but doesn't look it, hauled 450 pounds of dynamite through the streets of this city and ended up by leaving 250 pounds of it in a shed without any guard, was told in the East Boston Police Court to-day when Albert E. Tutein and James Maloney were arraigned on the charge of shipping and storing this dangerous explosive illegally.

Tutein is a member of the firm of E. G. Tutein & Co., East Boston teamsters. Maloney was employed to fill in the place of drivers who are out on strike. The office boy who figured in the case is Frank McMullen. He is employed by the Tutein firm. He accompanied Maloney ebcause the strike-breaker did not know the city.

Defendants Give Bail.

Both of the defendants pleaded not guilty, and after several witnesses had been heard the case was continued until May 4. The two men furnished $100 bail each. On the stand young McMullen told this story:

"I had been working for the firm two weeks. I am sixteen years of age. I was office boy. I was told to go with Maloney to the wharf and get the dynamite. We went and got it from the vessel Rubena, at No. 23 Central street. A man named Wilson helped to load the dynamite.

"We loaded into the wagon nine boxes containing fifty pounds each. Then we started for the Boston & Albany freight sheds. We were to leave five of the boxes there, but they would not take them because we had lost the certificate that should accompany the shipment of dynamite.

Boy in Charge of Explosives.

"We tried to 'phone the office about the difficulty, but could not get any one. So we had to go ahead with the dynamite. Two of the boxes were for Brighton and two more for Auburndale. We drove to these places and left the boxes there. That left in the wagon the five boxes that they wouldn't take at the B. & A. freight sheds.

"We concluded to take these to the Tutein barn. By the time we got there it was dusk. Before we got to the stable Maloney jumped off and went home. I drove the dynamite into the shed—not into the stable proper. I left it there."

Reported to Police.

James McCarthy, one of the strikers, who formerly was foreman for the Tutein Company, told how he discovered the dynamite and reported it to the police. The defendants declare through their lawyer that they were innocent of intentionally breaking any law, and Mr. Tutein said that the dynamite had been removed just as soon as he learned that it was in his premises.

Alexander Malcolm, a strike-breaker employed by Flanders & Co., teamsters, was fined $10 by Judge Fallon in the South Boston court to-day for deliberately running into one of Hilliard & Sloan's teams, driven by Patrick Gaffney. Malcolm, who belongs in New York, entered the plea that he didn't mean to do it.

It happened on April 22, on A street. Gaffney turned aside to avoid a team coming from Mt. Washington avenue. Malcolm, who was driving behind him, whipped up his horse, struck the animal driven by Gaffney, overturned horse and wagon, and then drove rapidly away.

Patrolman DeYone saw the accident, and searched with Gaffney until the strike-breaker was found and identified.

Michael Cunningham is twenty-three years of age and has lived in South Boston all his life. During the Spanish War he enlisted in the 79th Regiment Coast Artillery, and served for two years. He is a member of the League of Spanish War Veterans.

NOTED MEN DEMAND OPINION BILL AT FANEUIL HALL

The following famous educators, legislators and publicists were seated on the platform at the rousing mass meeting in the Cradle of Liberty, where the Massachusetts General Assembly was urged in ringing speeches to pass the bill giving the public the right to voice its ideas on measures proposed as laws: Reading from left to right, William Lloyd Garrison is in front of the bust. In front of him sits Harvey M. Shepard. At his left is Henry Sterling, secretary of Typographical Union No. 13. Back of Mr. Sterling is Mayor Brown of Marlboro. In front of both, with arms folded, is Edwin D. Mead. Rabbi Charles Fleischer is seated behind the post, with President Eliot in front of it, next to the table. On the other side of the table is Representative Robert Luce. Next to him is Representative Ross. Behind him is Erving Winslow, and to the left, in order, are Representative Robinson, Mr. Parks, Senator MacLeod, Folger Barker, Wharton Barker.

ARCANUMITES IN SESSION

With nearly every representative to the grand council, Royal Arcanum, present, its second session opened to-day at the American House. Grand Regent Walter Hadley presided.

The election of the grand officers will take place this afternoon. Deputy Supreme Regent the Rev. F. T. McFadden of Virginia and Supreme Secretary A. T. Turner of Brookline are in attendance at the council.

The organization, according to the reports made, is getting on its feet again after a loss in membership last year.

Grand Treasurer William L. Kelt reported that the receipts have been such as to leave a balance on hand April 1 of $5,747.67.

THREE KISSES TO DENTIST, $9

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 26.—Putting a price of three dollars on a kiss, Miss Cora Wilson, twenty years old, has asked the arrest of Dr. R. B. Cochrane, a dentist.

Miss Wilson says while the dentist was doing some work for her he made love to her and helped himself to three kisses.

Dr. Cochrane fitted her with false teeth and Miss Wilson gave him $11 in part payment of his bill of $20. She refused to pay him the remaining $9, saying that as he had stolen three kisses the obligation had been met.

STRUCK BY AGED HUSBAND, YOUNG WIFE TESTIFIES

Declaring that her husband, John J. Dorey, a wealthy sewer contractor of Somerville, of No. 30 Temple street, struck her across the mouth with the back of his hand, that he cursed and abused her frequently during the scarce two years she had lived with him, Mrs. Minnie E. Dorey of No. 227 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, to-day, in her suit for separate maintenance brought before Judge Lawton in the Middlesex County Probate Court, told a sensational story of marital differences which have lead to their separation.

Mrs. Dorey, who is but twenty-three years, tall, slender, pretty, a striking brunette wearing eye glasses, sat in a chair in the witness stand and related her woes in a dramatic and agitated manner, while her husband, over sixty years of age, this being his second marriage, eyed his young wife keenly and advised from time to time with his attorney, Augustine J. Daly.

She testified: "I was married in St. Thomas's Church, Jamaica Plain, on August 9, 1905. I had lived in Jamaica Plain with my mother all my life prior to then. Then I went to Mr. Dorey's home, No. 36 Temple street, Somerville.

"I left my husband December 29, 1906. He knew me all of my life and had visited at our home frequently even before his first wife died.

Struck Her Before Guests.

"The first Saturday in October, 1905, I left my husband and went to my mother because he had abused me and swore at me. I was not used to such things. I returned to him that day. The next Sunday when I went to chuch he abused me. One night about December 1 of that year, we were playing cards with two gentlemen visitors. My partner and I won the deciding point and when I said to Mr. Doray, 'We've just won that point,' he struck me across the mouth with the back of his hand and threw the cards on the floor.

"He constantly swore at me afterward and cursed me every day during that December and the first four months of last year. We quarrelled all that time. In January of 1906 he received several letters from another young lady."

Mr. Dorey, who has two grown sons older than his present wife, is estimated to be worth over $150,000.

Some of the men who are loyally supporting the undertaking are Dr. William H. Ruddick, John Drum, Dr. Thomas Ball, Hon. Joseph F. O'Connell, Hon. Herbert S. Carruth, James A. Dorsey, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Dr. William H. Greene and Dr. Joseph F. O'Brien.

HUB GIRL IN MYSTERY OF OLD WEDDING CERTIFICATE

Iowa Secretary of State Asked to Attest Signature of Clergyman Written Twenty Years Ago.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 26.—Miss Elsie Mary Whipple, of No. 10 Joy street, Beacon Hill, Boston, a school girl, and her sister, Miss Amy D. Whipple, of Camaguey, Cuba, are seeking to probe the mystery surounding a second marriage their father, Homer J. Whipple, who died in Cuba eleven days ago, is said to have contracted in Sioux Falls, S. D., in 1887, with Hester Hunt, of Burlington, Ia., who is supposed to be still living in Dakota.

From the Cuban sister Secretary of State Hayward has received the following letter, enclosing a marriage certificate:

"Camaguey, Cuba, April 18, 1907.

"I am sending you a marriage certificate which I want to get legalized for Cuba. In order to do this the secretary of state in which the certificate is made out must attest the signature of the minister. Will you kindly do this and forward the certificate to Miss Elsie Mary Whipple, No. 10 Joy street, Boston? Please send me the bill for your services. If you can attend to this soon I will be greatly obliged.

(Signed) "Amy D. Whipple."

It is said that the Whipples are wealthy and that the father left a large estate in Cuba, which it is impossible to divide until more definite information can be obtained concerning his second marriage.

GUILLOTINE THE RICH, SAYS SHAW

LONDON, April 26.—George Bernard Shaw, addressing a meeting of the National Art Collection Fund, regretted that people with big, unearned incomes did not take much interest in the society's work.

There is, he said, £500,000,000 in England belonging to people who do not work. He declared that more money was needed because it was coming in sharp competition with America. If wealthy people did not respond to the demand they ought to be guillotined.

WITHDRAW BILL FOR BRITISH TUNNEL

LONDON, April 26.—The bill introduced in the House of Commons authorizing the construction of a tunnel under the English channel from England to France, which aroused strong opposition, has been withdrawn.

PLOT TO KILL LABOR LEADER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—A sensational story was sprung in labor circles last night of an alleged conspiracy and plot to kidnap and murder P. H. McCarthy, president of the building trades council, and one of the most prominent labor leaders in this city.

The alleged plot is laid bare by M. Shockley, who implicated several others.

MISS BUNTING NURSE FOR HEIR OF SPAIN

MADRID, April 26.—Miss Gertrude Bunting of Nottingham, Eng., a Roman Catholic, has been engaged by Queen Victoria as her English nurse for Spain's royal heir. Miss Bunting acted in the same capacity at the birth of a daughter of the Marquis of Bute, one of the richest noblemen in the British empire.

Trifles That Are Really Important!

It's so easy to make a bluff—it's so easy to get things "pretty near," that nine tailors in ten won't take the trouble to get perfection. And it's this slighting of trifles—this glossing over of small things—that results so disastrously for you.

Here's a little "evidence" about Glasgow Woolen Mills tailoring that will serve to show why we've found so much success during the past 20 years in business:

1. To prevent shrinkage, every yard of goods is subjected to a special "cold-water process," thus eliminating all possibility of shrinkage after garments are made.

2. If necessary, we try each coat on twice in order to make sure of perfect fitting garments. None are allowed to leave the store unless right.

Our woolens, produced in our own mills in Scotland, are invoiced to us at the same price paid by commission houses, thereby cuting out the profit of a middleman.

This week, as a sort of after-holiday offering, we place our $20 $25 and $30 Scotch worsteds, tweeds and cheviots on sale..........

YOUNG LEGISLATOR TAKES BRIDE

Miss Florence Mabel Gray, wed at Quincy home to Representative Walter Archibald Webster.

LEGISLATOR WEBSTER WED TO MISS GRAY

Romance Begun Over Typewriting Ends in Marriage and Shower of Blessings.

QUINCY, April, 26.—Representative Walter A. Webster was married last night to Miss Florence Mabel Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Arthur Gray, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 51 Botolph street, in the Atlantic district, by Rev. Jason G. Miller, pastor of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church.

Miss Maud B. Gray, only sister of the bride, was maid of honor. There was no groomsman. Charles R. Safford of Atlantic, Representative Jacob H. Mock and James H. Knight of Jamaica Plain, acted as ushers.

The ceremony was witnessed by only a few friends, but the reception was attended by nearly 500 guests, many of them members of the Legislature and men prominent in public life. Representative and Mrs. Webster were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bride and the father of the groom, and also by Mrs. Hattie MacKusick, a sister of the groom, her husband, Arthur MacKusick, and by Miss Maud B. Gray.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance begun during the last city campaign, when Representative Webster engaged Miss Gray to do some of his typewriting. The result of the acquaintance thus inaugurated was that Miss Gray closed her office the first of last month and begun preparations for the wedding.

WOMAN HELD AS LEADER OF BOLD BURGLAR GANG

Trapped with Three Men by Ex-Bicycle Champion, Is Charged with Manchester, N. H., Breaks.

Special to the Boston American.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 26.—Declaring that in Annie Russell, James F. Harwood, George M. Cullen and Albert Vincent they have rounded to a gang of burglars and highwaymen who have been operating in this vicinity ever since last April, the Manchester police are to-day busy trying to complete evidence against each member of the party, which it is claimed have been led in all their acts of daring by the pretty woman.

The acts of Hilda Gundstrom, who made nothing of climbing through transoms and second-story windows, are declared by the Manchester police to having been rivalled and even excelled by this Russell girl, whose room in Elm street is declared to have been the headquarters of the gang and the place where all of their operations were planned.

All Held for Trial.

Arraigned yesterday in court on a charge of breaking and entering the wholesale liquor store of Pulaski & Olesniewicz, in Merrimack street, last Friday night, Annie Russell and Harwood and Cullen were bound over to the Superior Court and the trio went to jail in lieu of bail.

To-day Albert Incent, who was arrested last night on an alleged confession by Cullen, was arraigned along with Harwood, who was brought from his cell in jail on a charge of breaking and entering the hardware store of the Manchester Hardware Company in Elm street on April 4 last, when knives and revolvers were taken and the cash drawer tampered with.

The police claim that the two men confessed guilt to this crime. The officers state that the men declared that Annie Russell knew nothing whatever of this job. They were each held in $500 bail for the Hid Whiskey in Stocking.

To J. Henry Berwin, the former bicycle champion and national circuit rider, belongs the credit for the capture of Miss Russell, Harwood and Cullen. Berwin joined the local police force last month, and this is his first important case.

Berwin overheard the trio talking of some job they had done, he told the court, and he followed them to their headquarters, in the Elm street loding house, where the girl lives. There he caught them with a large quantity of goods, much of it being liquor said to have been stolen from bte liqnor store robbed last Friday night. The Russell girl even had a bottle of whiskey concealed in her stocking.

PLAYMATES SET FIRE TO CHILD

MALDEN, April 26.—Her little white dress set on fire by matches of her playmates, two-year-old Alice Thorpe lies in a critical condition at her home in Salem place, her body and face horribly burned, while her mother, Mrs. Grace Thorp, is suffering from burns about the arms and neck received in a heroic attempt to save her child.

PAID $2 FOR HORSE; HELD FOR LARCENY

On the general principle that a business man of long experience doesn't buy a $90 horse from strangers on a $2 deposit without inquiring into the genuineness of the title, Judge Fallon, in South Boston District Court to-day, held Expressman George A. Gillard, corner of Broadway and C street, South Boston, in $300 bonds for the higher court on larceny of a horse and harness from Moses Zimmerman, of No. 127 Fulton street, city.

On April 15 Zimmerman sent an employe out with a horse and wagon on business. The employe left the rig standing in front of No. 384 Harrison avenue. When the employe came out the rig was gone. On Patriots' Day Patrolman Powers, of Broadway station, thought that the horse attached to one of Gillard's express wagons answered the description sent out of Zimmerman's missing steed. Powers took the express rig and the driver, one of Gillard's men, to Broadway station. Gillard came in later and told Captain Wescott that a stranger, giving the name of Arthur Williams, of Newton, sold him the horse, Gillard paying $2 to hold the bargain, with the understanding he was to pay $88 more if he kept the horse.

When Gillard repeated this explanation to Judge Fallon to-day the Court didn't think that it looked businesslike.

PEACE MEMORIAL TO PENN.

CARLISLE, Pa., April 26.—At Dickinson College President Reed has announced that a department of peace and public service is son to be opened as a memorial to William Penn.

ROOSEVELT IS STYLED A 'FAD' BY GRANT'S SON

NEW YORK, April 27.—Jesse R. Grant, youngest son of President Grant, would not go quite so far as to call President Roosevelt a fakir; but, having an ear and a tongue for alliteration, Grant stuck to the "f" sound and said Roosevelt "was a fad." He added that this fad, like other fads, would pass and that disillusion would come.

Grant, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for the Presidency, was in the Prince George Hotel, in East Twenty-seventh street, when he made his vigorous attack on the man he would like to succeed. Grant doesn't favor a third term or a second term.

"The Chief Magistrate should hold office and discharge its duties uninfluenced by consideration of future success in Presidential contests," said he. "A President's administration should be non-partisan. It is not asking too much of a President that he should be raised above partisan strife. The dignity of the office is compromised whenever he begins to play politics, as, for instance, President Roosevelt has done in his letter on the Haywood-Moyer matter, as he has done in hundreds of instances, whether for the furtherance of his own ambition to occupy the office a third term or to dictate the nomination of his successor."

BROKER PAINE HALTS LAWSON-BURRAGE SUIT

The $3,000,000 equity suit of William A. Paine, president of the Copper Range and Tri-Mountain Mining Companies, against Albert C. Burrage and Thomas W. Lawson, was dropped yb consent of counsel in the Supreme Court to-day.

Just as soon as Judge Loring convened his court, Lawyers Mayberry and Albers, representing the defendants, and Lawyers Morris and Snow, representing the plaintiffs, went into conference with the presiding Judge.

At the conclusion of their consultation Attorney Mayberry, acting as spokesman for all the lawyers, said:

Quit Court Proceedings.

"There will be no more court proceedings in this suit. It has been arranged to settle all the matters concerned in the suit out of court. To this end there will be a meeting of opposing counsel later in the day."

The lawyers refused to discuss the terms of settlement until after the settlement is completed.

Judge Loring adjourned court immediately after the lawyers' first conference. It is expected that formal notice of the ending of the suit will be entered in the records Monday.

The feature of the suit yesterday was the reading of the deposition made by Thomas W. Lawson before he sailed for Europe.

"Bucketers"—Lawson.

In this deposition Lawson alleged that the plaintiffs' stock brokerage firm of Paine, Webber & Co. did a bucket shopping business, and that he had warned Burrage against them.

The defence to the $3,000,000 suit has contended from the outset that Burrage's sals of stock, upon which the action was based, had been made with the consent of Paine.

IMMIGRANTS IN BIG RUSH COME TO HUB

More immigrants, it is believed, will have landed in Boston during the present week than in any other week in the history of the port, judging by the great horde that has swarmed from the ships here during the past three days. In that time the number of foreigners who have reached the Hub totals more than 5,000.

This city generally is second in the number who land here from abroad, but last month it dropped into third place, New York and Baltimore both having better records. But from now onward, for some weeks, the immigration officials here will have their hands full in passing upon the eligibility of the would-be citizens of this land of the free.

Early to-day the immigration officials began work on the 1,900 who reached Boston last evening on the Cunarder Ivernia. The arrival of this consignment from across the water broke all Boston records for three days.

Of these arrivals an unusually small number will be deported for any cause. Of those brought in last evening 915 were English speaking and they were a fine looking lot of men and women.

Of the other arrivals on the Ivernia 716 are Scandinavians, the rest representing seven nationalities. There are 618 Irish immigrants among them. They lead the list in numbers, although Scandinavians usually occupy this position. Many of the young men and women from the old sod will stop in and about Boston.

In the list were 414 Swedes. With hardly an exception, they are bound for the Middle West, where they will settle upon farm lands, following friends and relatives who are already there.

The total immigration figures for this country last month were 139,118. Of that number about 1,000 were sent back. This month is expected to beat those figures.

EMBEZZLER AND FORGER, AND STILL IS FREE

TREASURER LINCOLN CONFESSES TO $92,000 THEFT FROM WOONSOCKET CORPORATION.

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 26.—Massachusetts and Rhode Island stockholders of the Woonsocket Electric Machine and Power Company are to-day figuring just how much the confessed defalcations of $92,000, which Levi Cook Lincoln, secretary, treasurer and general manager of the company, will cost them. Lincoln is still free and no step toward prosecuting him has been taken.

The startling admissions made by Lincoln before the directors and to representatives of Estabrook & Company, that since 1890 he had been speculating and had embezzled $92,000 of the company's funds by issuing and discounting notes can hardly be credited her.

Stockholders Will Lose.

Of course, Mr. Lincoln's resignation of all of his positions in the Woonsocket Company was forthcoming, even before it was demanded. The transfer of the stock to Estabrook & Company, which was to have taken place to-morrow, has been postponed to permit a joint auditing of the company's books, to determine the amount of the defalcation.

The transfer of the stock to the Estabrook concern was agreed upon on February 27 last. Now the auditors will have to fix the amount of loss which each stockholders will have to bear before the Estabrook concern will pay for the stock.

The Estabrook Company, of which Frank A. Sayles of Pawtucket and certain members of the Woonsocket Gas Company are interested, will take place within a few weeks, it is now thought.

No steps have been taken toward prosecuting Mr. Lincoln, nor will the officials of the Woonsocket company discuss this feature.

Lincoln has turned over his home, No. 473 South Main street, Woonsocket, and all other property he possesses, toward making up the shortage, yet it is figured that there will be a deficit of from $50,000 to $60,000.

Mr. Lincoln is still living in his South Main street home with his invalid wife. He expects to remain there for some time. His surety bond, amounting to $10,000, was furnished by the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Baltimore, and this concern has been called upon for the amount of the bond by the light company's directors.

The Baltimore company is represented here by G. L. & H. J. Gross, and in Woonsocket by R. P. Smith & Sons. What action the surety company will take is not revealed.

So cleverly did Mr. Lincoln manipulate his books that at no time during the seventeen years that he has been using the funds of the company for his own purposes has he been suspected of dishonesty and the stealing could have been kept up for an indefinite period, say experts, had not the transfer of the concern's property been planned.

Estabrook & Co. were to have received the stock at $155.15, having acquired it after a spirited bidding. The stockholders, it is figured, will get about $140 instead of $155.15 on account of the shortage.

The directors have elected George R. Smith secretary and Joseph G. Ray of Franklin, Mass., who represents the heaviest stockholders, treasurer and general manager.

PASTORS BALK MAY YOHE WHO TRIES TO WED AGAIN

One Minister After Another Declines to Marry Her tol. Newton Brown of Philadelphia.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 26.—May Yohe, actress and erstwhile spouse of Lord Francis Hope and Putnam Bradlee Strong, contemplated a third dive into the sea of matrimony last night. At last reports she said the bridegroom-elect was looking for a clergyman who would perform the ceremony. With her was I. Newton Brown of Philadelphia and New York and her Japanese maid, Youi. Incidentally, it should be mentioned that it was reported last night, and not denied by Miss Yohe herself, that she had last signed a contract to reappear on the stage.

At 10 o'clock last night the telephone wires leading into the newspaper offices were laden with messages to the effect that May Yohe was to be married again. The Hotel Dunlop, in Forty-fourth street was the place designated.

Were Children Together.

There, in the back dining room, no signs of a dinner or any other meal being apparent, Miss Yohe, Mr. Brown, and the Japanese maid were found. After preliminary remarks Miss Yohe announced that she had know Mr. Brown:

"Since we were children together in Philadelphia—eight years old—and we used to make tents out of our mothers' sheets and charge two cents admission we have met each other in between times ever since, and now we are going to be married. We have telephoned for a minister, and he will be here presently. Last night 'Newt' said to me: 'May, we've known each other a long time. Now I'm free and you are free. What's the matter with our getting spliced?'"

So the conversation went while the trio waited for the minister who did not come. Soon it was announced that the clergyman at the "Little Church Around the Corner" would not perform the ceremony. Miss Yohe was in despair. Not so Mr. Brown. He telephoned to the Rev. Dr. Henry Marsh Warren, the hotel chaplain. After that another wait ensued.

Finally Mr. Dunlop, who owns the hotel, said Dr. Warren had telephoned that he could not perform the ceremony.

1 KILLED, 2 HURT IN PENN. WRECK

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—One man was killed and two badly injured in a wreck which occurred early to-day on the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania railroad, a half-mile from Eden station. J. T. Philips, engineer, of Delmar, was killed instantly, and John Sturgeon, conductor, and Frank Manning, fireman, seriously injured.

GENERAL WAGE RAISE COMING

—JOHN GOLDEN

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 26—John Golden, president of the Textile Workers, who is in Pawtucket incident to the strike of the carding room employes of the J. & P. Coats Thread Company, declared last night that it was his firm belief that within a short time the mill employes of New Bedford and Fall River, and, in fact, all the New England manufacturing cities, would see a voluntary raise in wages. The prosperity of the country is given by Mr. Golden as the reason for this.

The strike among the Coats employes is apparently no nearer settlement than ever.

W. L. DOUGLAS
THE BEST $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN
DO YOU WEAR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES? IF NOT, I BELIEVE I CAN GIVE YOU GOOD AND SUFFICIENT REASONS WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO WEAR THEM.

I give the wearer the benefit of my thorough and practical knowledge of shoemaking, which has extended over fifty years.

I give the wearer the benefit of my exclusive method of tanning the bottom soles, which makes them more flexible and gives longer wear than any other sole leather produced in this country.

As I am the largest manufacturer of men's fine Hand-Sewed Process shoes in the world, it is necessary for me to purchase leather and other materials in enormous quantities; the benefit of the very low prices I obtain I give to the wearer in superior quality over other makes.

I give the wearer the benefit of the most complete organization of superintendents, foremen and skilled shoemakers, who receive the highest wages paid in the shoe industry, and whose workmanship cannot be excelled. The selection of the leathers and other materials for each part of the shoe, and every detail of the making is looked after and watched over by these expert men, regardless of time or expense.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer and are of greater value than any other make.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.
For the past five years I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes. Prior to this I had tried about every other $3.50 shoe on the market. From my own personal experience I find that there are none to be compared with the shoes made and sold for $3.50 by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. For quality and durability they are unequalled.
GEORGE McANAUL,

GIRL FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY--THEN WEDS

Dr. Alice Lilienthal of Brookline Owns to Debts of $10,649.72 and Marries D. W. Hirshberg Same Day

Despite the fact that only a few hours earlier she filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, placing her debts at $11,649.72, Dr. Alice Lilienthal of Brookline, was married last evening to D. Walter Hirshberg, a former Brookline High School athlete and son of S. Hirshberg of Beacon street, Brookline, and brother of Rabbi S. Hirshberg, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lilienthal, No. 26 Beals street, Brookline.

The ceremony was attended by only the families and very few close friends of the couple. The bride was attired in a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with duchess lace and white satin; she carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas, and received with smiling countenance the congratulations of her relatives and friends, her every appearance indicating a lack of worriment over her financial difficulties.

In fact, just previous to the wedding, her father, A. L. Lilienthal, who only arrived from the West recently, said that the prospective bride was very happy and that the petition in bankruptcy was made to relieve her of obligations which she had contracted only as a matter of business and to assist her mother, Mrs. Sophie Lilienthal.

To Assist Her Mother.

According to Mr. Lilienthal, his daughter was liable as indorser on notes given by her mother, these notes having been secured by a mortgage on property purchased some time ago by Mrs. Lilienthal in Cambridge. This mortgage was foreclosed, leaving a balance of $10,000 and interest due on the notes. The creditors on this $10,000 debt are Henrietta H. White and Henry White of Cambridge.

In her petition Dr. Alice, now Mrs. Hirshberg, declared her assets as $50, although in a list she filed she admits that she has property valued at $235 more, including wearing apparel and household goods worth $150, books and pictures valued at $50, $10 worth of drugs, and surgical instruments worth $25. Outstanding accounts of $50, she thinks, are the only assets her creditors are entitled to.

Of the debts $1,649.72 are unsecured. The largest unsecured claim is that of Lucy Colby of No. 32 Frost street, Cambridge, to whom $150 is due for rent.

When seen by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter she refused to say anything about her bankruptcy proceedings. "I cannot say anything about that matter," said she. "You will have to see my husband about it. So please excuse me." Her husband was equally reticent about his wife's financial troubles.

Wedding Simple One.

The wedding was solemnized beneath a bower of plants and potted ferns by Rabbi Charles Fleischer. The services were performed with the utmost simplicity, there being neither bridesmaid nor best man.

The bride, who is a graduate of Cambridge High School and Tufts Medical School, class of 1902, has lived in Brookline for the past few years. The groom is well known in athletic circles both in Brookline and Boston. He graduated from Brookline High School in 1895, and played as halfback on the football team of that school for four years. He was also a member of the track team.

After their honeymoon trip the couple will reside at No. 5 Linden street, Allston.

LOW FARES FOR OLD HOME WEEK

Commissioner L. P. Farmer of the Trunk Line Association has notified Manager Thomas F. Anderson of the Boston Publicity and Information Bureau that his application for a special reduced Old Home Week excursion rate in connection with the coming Boston celebration has been granted by the several lines of that association.

This action covers the Grand Trunk, the New York Central & Hudson River, West Shore, New York, Ontario & Western, Erie, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Philadelphia & Reading, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio roads.

WINSOR LINE TO FALL RIVER

PROVIDENCE, April 26.—According to plans now being considered the Winsor Line will cease to have its terminal in this city, but instead will use the facilities of the Fall River water front, thus creating a new terminal. Providence will lose the Winsor Line traffic, which will be turned over to the Merchants' & Miners' Company.

The Winsor Line will cease to exist as it was purchased by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company a short time ago and turned over to the Merchants' & Miners'. This latter company will operate the absorbed line under an agreement with the New Haven Company.

SALOON KEEPER SHOT; ARREST 9

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 26.—P. J. McCarthy, saloon keeper, politician and brother of Lieutenant David McCarthy of the traffic police squad, was shot and almost instantly killed in a saloon at Eighth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, diagonally across from the famous Devery pump, early today. Nine men have been arrested, but none of them will admit he knows anything about the shooting.

SHIP BURNS, CREW IN FLIGHT

NEW YORK, April 26.—The steamboat Sarah A. Jenks, plying between New York and Yonkers, caught fire in Long Island Sound, off Port Morris, early to-day, and the crew fled for their lives. An alarm was sent to New York, and the fireboats McClellan and New Yorker, with the police patrol boat, were sent to her aid. The fire had gained such headway that the crew could do nothing to check it, and by the time the fireboats reached her she was ablaze from stem to stern.

There were no passengers on board, fortunately. She was heavily loaded with freight.

Young Men's Sack Suit for Spring

$28

WITHOUT doubt these handsome suits have no peer—in fact, close comparison finds them in many cases superior to custom made garments. The new soft grays in attractive checks and stripes predominate, while the new shades of brown appeal to nobby dressers. Single and double-breasted; two and three buttons; long roll; cut from the newest models, exclusive with us. Gentlemen's careful criticism is cordially invited with a view to complete and comfortable satisfaction.

A WORD TO BOSTON BUSINESS MEN!!!

We Sell More Ready Made Clothing

Than Any Other One Boston House

Why?

BECAUSE we can and do give you more style and actual value for your money than you have found you could get anywhere else—

BECAUSE you have found that you can depend on what we say in our advertising.

BECAUSE you know and have confidence in our salesmen.

BECAUSE you get "a square deal," all the way through—reliable materials, honest tailoring, fair prices.

We Sell "Kirschbaum" Clothing

And Have Sold It for Years

Why?

BECAUSE it is unquestionably the finest brand of men's clothing that money will buy.

BECAUSE, although other brands come and go, we have never yet found as good ready made clothing.

BECAUSE, although the new brands are offered us first, we have always found "Kirschbaum" clothing far superior.

Do not say you cannot get fitted with ready made clothing until you have tried "Kirschbaum." For, unless you are a very unusual figure, in fact, unless you are far out of the ordinary proportions, you can get as perfect fitting "Kirschbaum" suits and coats as you can have made to order by any custom tailor

At About Half Tailors' Prices

And we have a great stock of suits, coats, fancy vests, trousers, etc., from other famous wholesale tailoring houses, most of them controlled for New England by the R. H. White Co.

The Department Now Under New Management

Since the opening of the Spring season we have heard so many pleasant remarks and criticisms in regard to the great improvement in the styles shown in our Men's Clothing Department that we feel called upon to state that the chief of this department is a man who for many years was the head of one of the largest retail clothing departments in America—certainly the largest in any department store, that of John Wanamaker's of New York. His experience gained in that broad field is now at the service of our customers, and, judging from the increased sales in this department since he has taken charge of it, they are showing their appreciation in a manner most pleasing to us and, at the same time, they are getting clothing which in material and construction is of the highest class. To this is added that touch of style which can only be found where the head of the department has a positive genius for his business.

Kirschbaum Suits $10.95

No Better Suits at $15.00 or $18.00

No make of clothing in Boston is better known for its many good qualities than "Kirschbaum." The best proof is the great number actually sold, since we first offered these suits at this popular price. This great bargain fell to our lot through a cancelled order by another firm. All are this Spring's models, in handsome neat patterns, tailored to hold their shape, containing more real hand work, with a superior quality of linings, than is customarily put into suits that sell at 15 and 18. Our price while they last........ 10.95

$15 and $18 Raincoats at $12.50

You cannot go wrong in purchasing one of these new Raincoats—splendid 15.00 and 18.00 values at 12.50. A leading manufacturer had a few more than he wanted, we took them at our price. They are plain oxfords, and tan coverts in herringbone effects. All Priestley Cravenetted, cut 52 inches long, satin sleeve lining, and show all the points of good tailoring. Can be used either as a Raincoat or Spring Overcoat. Regular 15.00 and 18.00 Raincoats at........ 12.50

Distinctive Clothing for Men and Boys

The clothing business of this store stands upon the solid foundation of these vital principles: First, good, reliable all-wool fabrics; Second, honest and careful tailoring; Third, reliable manufacturers, whose name is their bond; Fourth, careful and obliging salespeople.

Our customers are calling more and more for our higher grade suits. Indeed, a remark often heard in this department is to the effect that we have the handsomest clothing shown in Boston.

Bear in mind that every garment we sell is made upon honor—made to wear and to look well. We pay particular attention to the vital parts, the inner or hidden things, and we stand back of every garment we offer.

SEEKS A WIFE WITH CASH TO SAVE WORLD

Feels Drawn to One Who Answered Ad., But Another Is $40,000 Richer.

MET 100 GIRLS AT TRYST

Special to the Boston American.

PORTLAND, Me., April 26.—Rev. James S. Diehl, who says that his home is in Gettysburg, Pa., has been in Portland for the past five days advertising in the local papers for a wife.

Mr. Diehl says that he is the only man in the wroid who has stood face to face with God and that this happened when he was twelve years of age, in his home town. He says that he was in conversation with the Lord for the space of thirty seconds.

His object in advertising for a wife at this time is that he has aspirations to go into the moving picture business and depict to the sinning world the scene of his meeting with God in order that all unsaved ones may be converted. He says that he has no money himself, but that he wants to marry a woman with from $20,000 to $50,000, so that he may carry out his moving picture scheme.

Two Impressive Replies.

Mr. Diehl has received numerous replies to his advertisement, but he is particularly impressed with one from Miss Martha E. Carr, who resides at No. 215 Oxford street, Portland, and assures Mr. Diehl that she can raise $50,000 at a moment's notice. Miss Carr says that she believes that Diehl is thoroughly in earnest in his desire to reform the world and that she is willing to become his helpmeet and thus aid him in his ambitions.

One other applicant which has impressed Mr. Diehl with her wealth is Miss Tabitha Pennell, who writes that she lives on the corner of Pearl street and Cumberland avenue. Miss Pennell has only $10,000, but Diehl thinks that perhaps this will do if he cannot land Miss Carr, with her $40,000.

Miss Pennell says that she is very much in love with the evident sincerity of Mr. Diehl, and that she wants to do what she can to help him in his work of converting the world. She owns that she is somewhat jealous of Miss Carr and is afraid that Mr. Diehl may select the latter as his life partner for the reason that she has $40,000 more than she has.

Met Crowd of Ribbons.

"But she can't love him any more, and even if she had as much money as John D. Rockefeller her love could not be any deeper for Mr. Diehl than mine is."

Mr. Diehl has had interviews with two women, one from Westbrook and one from Biddeford, but neither could produce the necessary mazuma to put them on the eligible list.

Last night he had appointments with three women in Lincoln park, one of whom was to wear a white ribbon, one a yellow ribbon, and one a red ribbon. Prompt to the hour Mr. Diehl arrived at the trysting ground, only to be confronted with about one hundred young women, all wearing red, white and yellow ribbons.

TO SAVE SOULS—ADVERTISES FOR WIFE

Picks two out of flood of answers and is now hesitating between affinity and a big pile of money.

Miss Tabitha Pennell—$10,000.

VERMONT MASON PARESIS VICTIM

WOODSTOCK, Vt., April 26.—After a lingering illness of Paresis, Charles R. Montague, a prominent Vermont Mason, hotel man and corporation director, is dead at his home here. He was a native of Bridgewater, Vt., and was fifty-seven years old.

HARVARD STAR ATHLETE DIES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—"Jack" Bigelow, son of William Bigelow, vice-president of the First National Bank of Milwaukee, died last night at the Pennsylvania Hospital of appendicitis. Bigelow was recently elected second assistant manager of the Harvard football team, which would have made him manager in his senior year.

He was also known as a golfer and athlete, his specialty being track work. He was a member of the Harvard golf team and played on the team of the Milwaukee country club. He was twenty-one years old.

PARROT'S VOICE LED FIREMEN

Guided by the plaintiff screams of a talkative parrot, which they at first thought to be those of a human being in distress, firemen were enabled to make heroic rescues of numerous other parrots and canaries at a blaze in Holden's bird store in Bromfield street early to-day. They penetrated the dense smoke and brought the birds to the street. A number of feathered songsters and a valuable angora cat succumbed to the smoke.

MANY SAIL ON LINER CYMRIC

The White Star steamship Cymric sailed to-day for Liverpool with eighty-five saloon and 223 steerage passengers. Among the saloon passengers from Boston were Henry Forbes Bigelow, the well-known architect, Mrs. Bigelow and their four children; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hale Goff, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Howard and Mrs. Charles Howard, William H. Rideing of the Youth's Companion, and Mrs. Rideing; Albert H. Thayer and Miss Adele Thayer and Elliott Wadsworth.

Rev. James M. Grey, the distinguished Bible scholar and member of the faculty of the Chicago University, was also a passenger. He is enroute to the Holy Land.

BARONESS ON TRIAL, DEFIES GIRL ACCUSERS

"They Can Never Send Me to Death Chair," Declares the Woman Held as Slayer.

'HATE ME FROM JEALOUSY'

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The Baroness Anisia Louise de Massey to-day defied her girl accusers to send her to the electric chair.

"These girls would like to see me convicted," she said when her trial on the charge of murdering wealthy Gustave Simon was resumed to-day. "But their spite cannot be used as evidence. Simon never told Miss Hale that I shot him. You notice that part of her testimony was stricken out.

"All the girls in Simon's place were jealous of me, and for that reason they are coming down here to convict me if they can. I was paid much more than they and it made them mad."

It was expected that the prosecution would complete its case to-day. Attorney Lebarbier had not decided whether he would put the fair prisoner on the witness stand in her own behalf. He does not think that it is absolutely necessary, saying that the State had not proved its case.

REWARD FOR A LOST TORPEDO

NEWPORT, R. I., April 26.—While the submarine torpedo boat Lake was out for practice with Whitehead torpedoes on the government measured mile course, one of the torpedoes was lost. A reward has been offered for its recovery. The torpedo is valued at $3,000.

TIE UP GRANITE QUARRIES.

WORCESTER, April 26.—By the calling out of sixty-five Worcester granite cutters at the Webb Granite and Construction Company's quarry in sympathetic strike with the cutters in the Milford quarries, the Webb company is tied up completely.

'SILENT' SMITH IN LATER WILL GAVE WIDOW ALL

Lady Mary Cooper With Document favoring Relatives Arrives in New York.

NEW ONE IS REPORTED

NEW YORK, April 26.—A later will of James Henry Smith, the New York millionaire who died recently in Japan, than that brought by Lady Mary Cooper, sister of the deceased, and her husband, Sir George, on their arrival here to-day, is said to be in existence. This report has caused a sensation. The last will, according to report, leaves practically the entire estate to the widow.

If a will of this description taking precedence over the will in possession of the Coopers really exists, it was stated that a contest for the estate is almost certain to follow. The statement by Sir George Cooper regarding the will he holds had quieted the other relatives until the report of the new will became general. Then they asserted they would never allow the bride-widow of Smith to inherit all his money without a fight.

One report had it that the new will is being brought by Mrs. Smith, who is on her way to New York with her husband's body. Another story was that it is among Smith's effects in New York.

Sir George Cooper refuses to discuss the report of a later will then the one he holds.

The exact amount of Smith's fortune, formerly reported as between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000, was given to-day as not more than $30,000,000. These figures are based on an estimate that the original fortune of Smith's father's cousin, which he shared equally with Lady Mary Cooper, was $50,000,000. Smith, it was said, had added $5,000,000 to his share.

DROP 12 LIQUOR MEN FROM LIST

NEW BEDFORD, April 26.—About a dozen changes were made in the list of seventy-two licenses granted last evening, while forty new applicants failed to receive the desired privileges. The innholders' license desired by Burke & Shay, owners of the New Bedford Baseball Club, was refused.

GIRL, PLAYING, IS KILLED BY TROLLEY

HAVERHILL, April 26.—Running directly in front of a swiftly moving electric car, while at play on the line of the Boston & Northern road on River street last night, Jeannie Waluevich, a seven-year-old girl, was instantly killed while scores of horror-stricken promenaders looked on, powerless to prevent her death.

The Key of Death.

In the arsenal at Venice there is preserved a large key, which was invented by one Tibaldo, a Venetian merchant, who, being disappointed in love, used it not only to destroy his rival, but also the parents of the woman he had sought to marry. This instrument of death contained a hidden spring, which upon pressure produced a needle filled with poison. When the poisons of disease infest the human system they should be eliminated by taking Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound in ailments presenting the following symptoms: Pains in the back, side and under the shoulder blade, dizziness, sleeplessness, headaches, constipation, tired feeling in the morning, loss of memory, biliousness, nervousness and loss of appetite. It electrifies the nerve forces, infuses a renewed vigor into the blood and purifies it, making the same fresh and healthy. Thirty days' treatment, 25c. All druggists.

ONE MONTH FREE.

The perfected X-Ray used to find disease, making diagnosis easy and a cure certain. All the sick who apply at the office of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, Room 10, No. 18 Boylston st., on or before April 30th, are entitled to this perfect examination and a month's treatment, without a penny to pay. One of the Kuppenheimer Suits—Best Blue Serge Suit in Boston at 15.50

Copyright 1907 The House of Kuppenheimer

$10 Sale of Men's Suits & Overcoats

That will eclipse any other event of its kind in value giving and volume of business

When we put a price of $10 on a suit or overcoat we do so only after satisfying ourselves that it is better than any other suit or overcoat you can buy in Boston at the same price. We do not carry $10 clothing in our stock, but we do sell $12.50 and $15 overcoats and suits, when a bargain opportunity presents itself, and we are able to make a legitimate purchase at a big reduction.

Men's $15 Suits at $10

1,000 strictly all-wool and worsted suits, in black cheviots, blue serges and fancy worsteds, in all the newest shades of gray, blues and fancy stripes, checks and overplaids.

Every suit has hand-felled collars, that fit the neck close, broad shoulders; coats cut full 31 inches long, with the new deep lapels.

Men's $15 Overcoats at $10

Light coverts, cut 35 inches long, venetian lined, silk sleeve lining, broad shoulders—a perfect fitting garment—only about 100; also blacks and oxfords, cut 42 inches long, silk sleeve lining, serge body lining—a splendid bargain.

A BOYS' CLOTHING STORE

Complete in Every Detail

It is possible for only one store in each city to quote the lowest prices, and we present today new bargains that justify us in making the claim that the Henry Siegel Co. is that store in Boston.

We call this department a complete clothing store for boys, because a boys' clothing store can only be complete when it offers the best qualities at the lowest prices, in the greatest varieties of the latest styles.

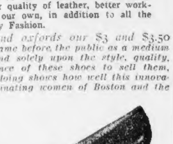
IMPORTANT NOTICE To Fashionably Dressed Women About Summer Oxfords

When this store was established we made arrangements with several of America's foremost shoe manufacturers to supply us with shoes and oxfords made especially to our order, according to the judgment of our own shoe experts, to sell at $3.00 and $3.50.

In making these arrangements we stipulated that these shoes and oxfords were not to be the same as the advertised $3 and $3.50 footwear. We demanded a better quality of leather, better workmanship, and styles exclusively our own, in addition to all the other correct shapes approved by Fashion.

We simply call these shoes and oxfords our $3 and $3.50 specials. We flaunt no high-toned name before the public as a medium of selling our footwear. We depend solely upon the style, quality, durability and fashionable appearance of these shoes to sell them, and the enormous business we are doing shows how well this innovation is appreciated by the discriminating women of Boston and the New England States.



If these shoes were advertised in the magazines and periodicals by the manufacturers under a high-toned name, as most of the other shoes are, they could not be sold for less than $4 and $5 a pair, considering their quality, style and workmanship.

Therefore, we say that if the shoes being sold under high-toned names around town are valued at $3 and $3.50, these are valued at $4 and $5, and our customers invariably see at once the great difference when they come to inspect our shoes.

We guarantee these $3 and $3.50 specials to wear better and retain their shapeliness longer than any other shoes and oxfords on the market selling at $3 and $3.50, and equally as long as those selling at $4 and $5.

We invite inspection of our $3 and $3.50 specials, and you are under no obligation whatever to buy.

Our Summer style exposition is now complete. Every new shape, every correct shape and many distinctive shapes are awaiting your selection. Every leather is included, every proper style of heel, toe and sole is here in light and medium weights for Summer.

In conclusion we may truthfully say that the Henry Siegel Co. is the only store in Boston offering Summer shoes and oxfords actually valued at $4 and $5 a pair at the low prices of $3 and $3.50.

MUNYON'S SUCCESS

In Curing Old, Chronic Cases of

RHEUMATISM

Patients Given Up as Incurable

Speedily Restored to Health by

Munyon's 3 X Rheumatism Remedy

I want every rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, all plasters, and try MUNYON'S 3 X RHEUMATISM CURE. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what your druggist may say, no matter what your friends may say, no matter how bigoted or prejudiced you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of 3 X RHEUMATISM CURE. Price $1.00. (He will get it for you if he has none in stock.) There are 100 doses in a bottle, and as one lady says: "Every tablet is worth more than a diamond of the same size." A few doses will take away all aches and pains, and a cure generally effected before one bottle is used.

Remember, this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium, cocaine, morphine, or other harmful drugs. It is put up under the guarantee of the Pure Food & Drugs Act, but my guarantee I consider the best. Try the remedy, and if you are not satisfied, bring the empty bottle to me and I will refund your money.

If you have any other ailment remember that we put up a separate remedy for each disease. We have no "cure-alls." Our Cold Cure cures colds and coughs; is worth more than all the emulsions, all the oils, all the balsams and cough cures that have ever been made. You can prove this statement by the investment of 25 cents.

My Kidney Cure, I believe, has saved more lives and cured more chronic cases of bladder and kidney ailment than any known remedy. Money back whenever it fails.

My Dyspepsia and Stomach Remedy enables one to eat a good, square meal and digest it.

My Constipation Ointment gives a natural movement in from two to three minutes, and is rapidly taking the place of all cathartics and weakening nostrums.

My Headache Cure stops all headaches in from 3 to 10 minutes, and is a good heart and stomach tonic.

All persons suffering with Piles I most earnestly ask to try my Pile Ointment. It stops all itching and pain instantly. Money back if it fails to cure, and cure quickly.

If you need medical advice address Munyon, 53d and Jefferson sts., Phila. Pa.

For a Good Complexion, Health and Beauty.

FOR Clear Eyes
—Pure Complexion
—Sweet Breath
—Clean Tongue
—Calm Nerves
—Good Temper

Eat a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it. Carry a little 10c Emergency box constantly with you, in your Purse or Pocket.

When do you need one?

—When your Tongue is coated

—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in Throat

—When Pimples begin to peep out

—When your stomach Gnaws and Burns.

That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

That's the time to take a Cascaret.

* ● *

One tablet taken whenever you suspect you need it will insure you against 90 per cent of all other ills likely to attack you.

Cascarets don't purge, don't weaken, don't irritate, nor upset your stomach.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract and propel the Food naturally past the little valves that mix Digestive Juices with Food.

This stronger action produces greater nutrition from food and perfect elimination of useless materials.

It makes the blood purer, healthier and more reconstructive, insuring a fine, clear color and complexion.

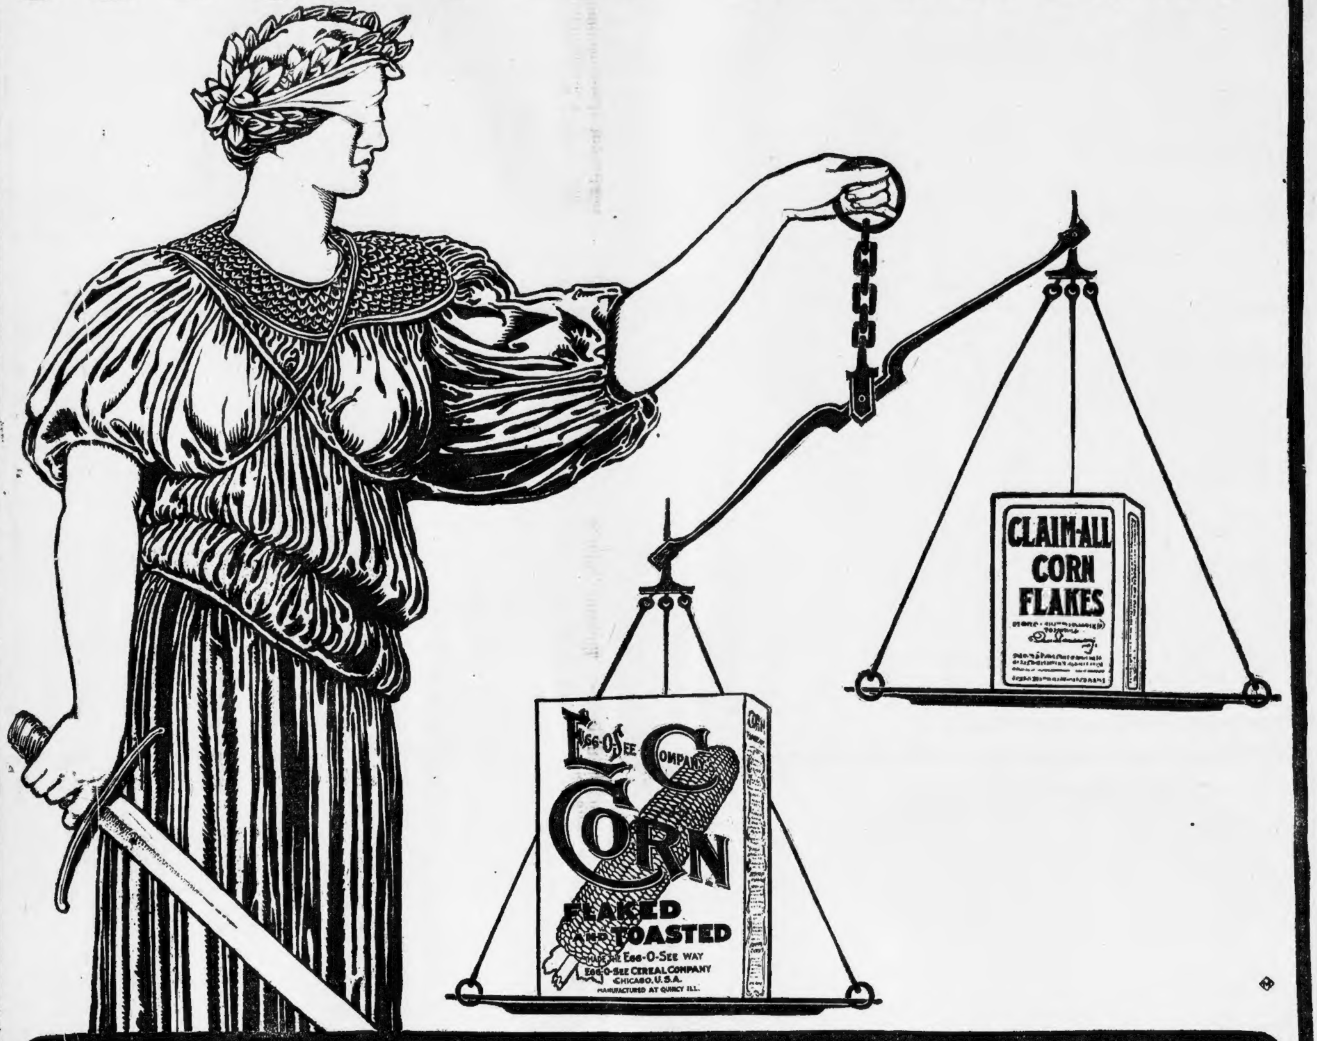
JUDGE FOR YOURSELF



The above picture illustrates a fact which we feel every thrifty American housewife ought to know—

A single package of our E. C. Corn Flakes contains 50% more toasted corn flakes than any other 10c package on the market.

This means that you can serve E. C. Corn Flakes with rich cream and fruit for less money than it costs to serve other brands plain and dry.

In other words, every time you do not insist upon our E. C. Corn Flakes at your grocer's you are practically throwing away 5c in real money.

- Could anything more clearly illustrate to the thrifty American housewife the real economy of E. C. Corn Flakes?

But that is not all—

E. C. Corn Flakes so far surpasses other brands in regard to quality that there is really no basis for comparison on that point—

For E. C. Corn Flakes is made in the largest, cleanest and most economically operated pure food mills in the world, by the famous Egg-O-See process, which has made Egg-O-See the favorite flaked food from Maine to California.

More Egg-O-See is eaten each day than all other flake foods combined.

Never in the history of a food product have the American people given such a sweeping endorsement of merit as has been accorded Egg-O-See.

That is why we call our flaked and toasted corn food Egg-O-See Company's Corn.

We realized that the millions of people who, for years, have known the deliciousness of Egg-O-See would understand at once that E. C. Corn Flakes is as good a corn food as Egg-O-See is a wheat food and that, with these two in the home, they need no other cereal.

Remember the name, Egg-O-See Company's Corn, flaked and toasted, or E. C. CORN (as we call it for short), and that it is made the Egg-O-See way by the Egg-O-See Company in the largest, cleanest and most economically operated pure food mills in the world, thus making it possible for us to sell the largest package of the highest quality food for 10 cents.

Get a package at once and judge for yourself. Your grocer should have it. If not, insist on his getting it for you, or send us his name and 10 cents, and we will send you a package prepaid.

LATIN SCHOOL SOLDIERS HOLD PRIZE DRILL

March 600 Strong in Presence of Officials of State and City Governments.

HIGH SCHOOL DRILL TODAY

The annual prize drills of the second regiment of the Boston School Cadets were held yesterday in Mechanics' Hall, the galleries of which were crowded with the parents and friends of the young soldiers, while the State and city governments and the militia were represented. The first and second battalions of the second regiment, B. S. C., consist of eight companies from Boston Latin School.

The drill was a great success, the youthful soldiers, 600 strong, appearing in the regulation uniform.

Company D, Captain Francis G. Duffy, won first prize, and its commander becomes lieutenant-colonel. Captain Warren J. Bloom of Company C, which won second prize, becomes major of the first battalion, while the pony company prize was won by Company H, Captain Edwin C. Baker, who is now major of the second battalion.

Following the company drill came three rounds of the individual drill under the command of Captain Quartermaster Chester A. Dunham, and the drum corps of thirty pieces, commanded by Drum Major Roger Hill, gave an exhibition.

The rewards were as follows:

Senior company drill—First prize, Company D, Captain Francis G. Duffy, Lieutenant John W. Churchward, Lieutenant Frederick P. Donovan; second prize, Company C, Captain Warren J. Bloom, Lieutenant Harold A. Murch, Lieutenant Joseph P. Kennedy.

Junior company drill—Pony prize, Company H, Captain Edwin C. Baker, Lieutenant Gardner D. Howie, Lieutenant George E. Hodge.

Individual drill—First prize, Corporal H. S. Potter, Company H; second prize, Sergeant W. A. Perrins, Company C; honorable mention, Sergeant Morton, Company B, Sergeant Elcock, Company A, Sergeant Hennesey, Company C, Sergeant Sisnosky, Company O.

Musicians' contest—Bugling prize, James Moran; drummer's prize, Rufus Harrington.

The judges were Major Leon W. Ham, staff First Brigade; Captain Frank S. Wilson, Third Coast Artillery, and Lieutenant Whipple F. Smith, staff Coast Artillery.

To-day the two regiments of the English High School, composed of more than 1,000 cadets, hold their annual prize drills in Mechanics' Hall.

CLOTHING ON CREDIT

Every Garment Is Stylish High Grade and Low Priced

Not to be seasonably and stylishly clothed these days excites suspicion and invites sympathy. Now, neither is wanted, but the sure way to avoid both is to "keep up." This is all very well with those who have plenty to spare, but to those who do not our plan of dignified accommodation credit appeals with especial force. By paying a small amount at purchase time you can get your clothes at once and then pay a little every week.

By taking advantage of our plan the problem of "keeping up" becomes an easy matter and does not attack the purse so vigorously as does the payment of the cash in one lump. For quality, workmanship and style our stock of Spring garments leaves nothing to be desired.

We are anxious to serve you, therefore we suggest you call without delay.

Men's Suits

Very fine quality and attractive style. Best value in town and especially so when you realize that you can get your suit now and pay for it in weekly payments. Spring Overcoats may be purchased on the same basis. Prices are right, the tailorship superb, and the quality of the materials the best.

Women's Suits

Handsome garments of style and accepted models. The fabrics are varied, the styles are many and exquisite. The workmanship and quality of materials the best. Ladies, don't put off the buying, but come in and buy and pay us weekly.

The members of the diplomatic corps, together with the Cabinet officers and other official guests from Washington, arrived this morning.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH OPENS EXPOSITION

JAMESTOWN, Va., April 26.—President Roosevelt, in opening the Jamestown Exposition to-day, made the following address:

At the outset I wish to say a word of special greeting to the representatives of the foreign governments here present. They have come to assist us in celebrating what was in very truth the birthday of this nation, for it was here that the colonists first settled, whose incoming, whose growth from their own loins and by the addition of newcomers from abroad, was to make the people which 169 years later assumed the solemn responsibilities and weighty duties of complete independence.

In welcoming all of you I must say a special word first to the representative of the people of Great Britain and Ireland. The fact that so many of our people, of whom as it happens I myself am one, have but a very small portion of English blood in our veins, in no way alters the other fact that this nation was founded by Englishmen, by the Cavalier and the Puritan. Their tongue, law, literature, the fund of their common thought, made an inheritance which all of us share, and marked deep the lines along which we have developed. It was the men of English stock who did most in casting the mold into which our national character was run.

Let me furthermore greet all of you, the representatives of the people of continental Europe. From almost every nation of Europe we have drawn some part of our blood, some part of our traits. This mixture of blood has gone on from the beginning, and with it has gone on a kind of development unexampled among peoples of the stocks from which we spring; and hence to-day we differ sharply from, and yet in some ways are fundamentally akin to, all of the nations of Europe.

Again, let me bid you welcome, representatives of our sister republics of this continent. In the larger aspect, your interests and ours are identical. Your problems and ours are in large part the same, and as we strive to settle them, I pledge herewith on the part of this nation the heartiest friendship and good will.

Finally, let me say a special word of greeting to those representatives of the Asiatic nations who make up that newest East which is yet the most ancient East, the East of time immemorial. In particular, let me express a word of hearty welcome to the representative of the mighty island empire of Japan; that empire, which, in learning from the West has shown that it had so much, so very much to teach the West in return.

Rising Tide for Peace.

To all of you here gathered I express my thanks for your coming, and I extend to you my earnest wishes for the welfare of your several nations. The world has moved so far that it is no longer necessary to believe that one nation can rise only by thrusting another down. All far-sighted statesmen, all true patriots, now earnestly wish that the leading nations of mankind as in their several ways they struggle constantly toward a higher civilization, a higher humanity, may advance hand in hand, united only in a generous rivalry to see which can best do its alloted work in the world. I believe that there is a rising tide in human thought which tends for righteous international peace; a tide which it behooves us to guide through rational channels to sane conclusions; and all of us here present can well afford to take to heart St. Paul's counsel: "If it be possible, as much as lieth in your, live peaceably with all men."

We have met to-day to celebrate the opening of the exposition which itself commemorates the first permanent settlement of men of our stock in Virginia, the first beginning of what has since become this mighty republic. Three hundred years ago a handful of English adventurers, who had crossed the ocean in what we should now call cockle-boats, as clumsy as they were frail, landed in the great wooded wilderness, the Indian-haunted waste, which then stretched down to the water's edge along the entire Atlantic coast. They were not the first men of European race to settle in what is now the United States, for there were already Spanish settlements in Florida and on the headwaters of the Rio Grande; and the French, who at almost the same time were struggling up the St. Lawrence, were likewise destined to form permanent settlements on the Great Lakes and in the valley of the mighty Mississippi before the people of English stock went westward of the Alleghenies.

Shaped Republic's History.

Moreover, both the Dutch and the Swedes were shortly to found colonies between the two sets of English colonies, those that grew up around the Potomac and those that grew up on what is now the New England coast. Nevertheless, this landing at Jamestown possesses for us of the United States an altogether peculiar significance, and this without regard to our several origins. The men who landed at Jamestown and those who, thirteen years later, landed at Plymouth, all of English stock, and their fellow-settlers who, during the next few decades, streamed in after them, were those who took the lead in shaping the life history of this people in the colonial and revolutionary days.

It was they who bent into definite shape our nation while it was still young enough most easily, most readily, to take on the characteristics which were to become part of its permanent life habit.

Yet let us remember that while this early English colonial stock has left deeper than all others upon our national life the mark of its strong twin individualities, the mark of the Cavalier and of the Puritan—nevertheless, this stock, not only from its environment, but also from the presence with it of other stocks, almost from the beginning to be differentiated strongly from any European people.

As I have already said, about the time the English settlers landed here, the Frenchman and the Spaniard, the Swede and the Dutchman, also came hither as permanent dwellers, who left their seed behind them to help shape and partially to inherit our national life. The German, the Irishman, and the Scotchman came later, but still in colonial times. Before the outbreak of the revolution the American people, not only because of their surroundings physical and spiritual, but because of the mixture of blood that had already begun to take place, represented a new and distinct ethnic type. This type has never been fixed in blood. All through the colonial days new waves of immigration from time to time swept hither across the ocean, now from one country, now from another.

Nation's Blood Changing.

The same thing has gone on ever since our birth as a nation; and for the last sixty years the tide of immigration has been at the full. The newcomers are soon absorbed into our eager national life, and are radically and profoundly changed thereby, the rapidity of their assimilation being marvelous. But each group of newcomers, as it adds its blood to the life, also changes it somewhat, and this change and growth and development have gone on steadily, generation by generation, throughout three centuries.

The pioneers of our people who first landed on these shores on that eventful day three centuries ago, had before them a task which during the early years was of heartbreaking danger and difficulty. The conquest of a new continent is iron work. People who dwell in old civilizations and find that therein so much of humanity's lot is hard are apt to complain against the conditions as being solely due to man, and to speak as if life could be made easy and simple if there were but a virgin continent in which to work. It is true that the pioneer life was simpler, but it was certainly not easier. As a matter of fact, the first work of the pioneers in taking possession of a lonely wilderness is so rough, so hard, so dangerous, that all but the strongest spirits fail.

Warfare Against Nature.

The early iron days of such a conquest search out alike the weak in body and the weak in soul. In the warfare against the rugged sternness of primeval Nature, only those can conquer who are themselves unconquerable. It is not until the first bitter years have passed that the life becomes easy enough to invite a mass of newcomers, and so great are the risk, hardship and toil of the early years that there always exists a threat of lapsing back from civilization.

The history of the pioneers of Jamestown, of the founders of Virginia, illustrates the truth of all this. Famine and pestilence and war menaced the little band of daring men who had planted themselves alone on the edge of a frowning continent. Moreover, as men ever find, whether in the tiniest frontier community or in the vastest and most highly organized and complex civilized society, their worst foes were in their own bosoms. Dissension, distrust, the inability of some to work and the unwillingness of others, jealousy, arrogance and envy, folly and laziness—in short, all the shortcomings with which we have to grapple now, were faced by those pioneers, and at moments threatened their whole enterprise with absolute ruin. It was some time before the ground on which they had landed supported them, in spite of its potential fertility, and they looked across the sea for supplies. At one moment so hopeless did they become that the whole colony embarked and was only saved from abandoning the country by the opportune arrival of help from abroad.

At last they took root in the land, and were already prospering when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. In a few years a great inflow of settlers began. Four of the present States of New England were founded. Virginia waxed apace. The Carolinas grew up to the south of it, and Maryland to the north of it. The Dutch colonies between, which had already absorbed the Swedish, were in their turn absorbed by the English. Pennsylvania was founded and, later still, Georgia.

There were many wars with the Indians and with the dauntless captains whose banners bore the lilies of France. At last the British flag flew without a rival in all eastern North America. Then came the successful struggle for national independence.

Floods of Immigration.

For half a century after we became a separate nation there was comparatively little immigration to this country. Then the tide once again set hither, and has flowed in ever increasing size until in each of the last three years a greater number of people came to these shores than had landed on them during the entire colonial period. Generation by generation these people have been absorbed into the national life. Generally their sons, almost always their grandsons, are indistinguishable from one another and from their fellow-Americans descended from the colonial stock. For all alike the problems of our existence are fundamentally the same, and for all alike these problems change from generation to generation.

In the colonial period and for at least a century after its close, the conquest of the continent, the expansion of our people westward, to the Alleghenies, then to the Mississippi, then to the Pacific, was always one of the most important tasks, and sometimes the most important in our national life. Behind the first settlers the conditions grew easier, and in the older-settled regions of all the colonies life speedily assumed much of comfort and something of luxury; and though generally it was on a much more democratic basis than life in the Old World, it was by no means democratic when judged by our modern standards; and here and there, as in the tide-water regions of Virginia, a genuine aristocracy grew and flourished. But the men who first broke ground in the virgin wilderness, whether on the Atlantic Coast or in the interior, fought hard for mere life.

In the early stages the frontiersman had to do battle with the savage, and when the savage was vanquished there remained the harder strain of war with the hostile forces of soil and climate, with flood, fever and famine. There was sickness and bitter weather; there were no roads; there was a complete lack of all but the very roughest and most absolute necessaries. Under such circumstances the men and women who made ready the continent for civilization were able themselves to spend but little time in doing aught but the rough work which was to make smooth the ways of their successors.

In consequence observers whose insight was spoiled by lack of sympathy always found both settlers and their lives unattractive and repellent. In Martin Chuzzlewitt the description of American, culminating in the description of the frontier town of Eden, was true and life-like from the standpoint of one content to look merely at the outer shell; and yet it was a community like Eden that gave birth to Abraham Lincoln; it was men such as were therein described from whose loins Andrew Jackson sprang.

Great Virginian Leaders.

Hitherto each generation among us has had its allotted task, now heavier, now lighter. In the Revolutionary War the business was to achieve independence. Immediately afterward there was an even more momentous task; that to achieve the national unity and the capacity for orderly development, without which our liberty, our independence, would have been a curse and not a blessing. In each of these two contests, while there were many great leaders from many different States, it is but fair to say that the foremost place was taken by the soldiers and the statesmen of Virginia; and to Virginia was reserved the honor of producing the hero of both movements, the hero of the war, and of the peace that made good the results of the war—George Washington; while the two great political tendencies of the time can be symbolized by the names of two other great Virginians—Jefferson and Marshall—from one of whom we inherit the abiding trust in the people which is the foundation stone of democracy, and from the other the power to develop on behalf of the people a coherent and powerful government, a genuine and representative nationality.

Two generations passed before the second great crisis of our history had to be faced. Then came the Civil War, terrible and bitter in itself and in its aftermath, but a struggle from which the nation finally emerged united in fact as well as in name, united forever. Oh, my hearers, my fellow-countrymen, great indeed has been our good fortune, for as time clears away the mists that once shrouded brother from brother and made each look "as through a glass darkly" at the other, we can all feel the same pride in the valor, the devotion and the fealty toward the right as it was given to each to see the right shown alike by the men who wore the blue, and by the men who wore the gray.

Valor Our Heritage.

Rich and prosperous though we are as a people, the proudest heritage that each of us has, no matter where he may dwell, North or South, East or West, is the immaterial heritage of feeling, the right to claim as his own all the valor and all the steadfast devotion to duty shown by the men of both the great armies, of the soldiers whose leader was Grant and the soldiers whose leader was Lee.

The men and the women of the Civil War did their duty bravely and well in the days that were dark and terrible and splendid. We, their descendants, who pay proud homage to their memories, and glory in the feats of might of one side no less than of the other, need to keep steadily in mind that the homage which counts is the homage of heart and of hand, and not of the lips, the homage of deeds and not of words only. We, too, in our turn, must prove our truth by our endeavor. We must show ourselves worthy sons of the men of the mighty days by the way in which we meet the problems of our own time. We carry our heads high because our fathers did well in the years that tried men's souls; and we must in our turn so bear ourselves that the children who come after us may feel that we, too, have done our duty.

We can not afford to forget the maxim upon which Washington insisted, that the surest way to avert war is to be prepared to meet it.

Nevertheless, the duties that most concern us of this generation are not military, but social and industrial. Each community must always dread the evils which spring up as attendant upon the very qualities which give it success. We of this mighty western republic have to grapple with the dangers that spring from popular self-government tried on a scale incomparably vaster than ever before in the history of mankind, and from an abounding material prosperity greater also than anything which the world has hitherto seen.

As regards the first set of dangers, it behooves us to remember that men can never escape being governed. Either they must govern themselves or they must submit to being governed by others. If from lawlessness or fickleness, from folly or self-indulgence, they refuse to govern themselves, then most assuredly in the end they will have to be governed from the outside. They can prevent the need of government from without only by showing that they possess the power of government from within. A sovereign cannot make excuses for his failures; a sovereign must accept the responsibility for the exercise of the power that inheres in him; and where, as is true in our republic, the people are sovereign, then the people must show a sober understanding and a sane and steadfast purpose if they are to preserve that orderly liberty upon which as a foundation every republic must rest.

In industrial matters our enormous prosperity has brought with it certain grave evils. It is our duty to try to cut out these evils without at the same time destroying our well-being itself. This is an era of combination alike in the world of capital and in the world of labor. Each kind of combination can do good, and yet each, however powerful, must be opposed when it does ill. At the moment the greatest problem before us is how to exercise such control over the business use of vast wealth, individual, but especially corporate, as will insure its not being used against the interest of the public, while yet permitting such ample legitimate profits as will encourage individual initiative. It is our business to put a stop to abuses and to prevent their recurrence, without showing a spirit of mere vindictiveness for what has been done in the past.

In John Morley's brilliant sketch of Burke he lays especial stress upon the fact that Burke, more than almost any other thinker or politician of his time, realized the profound lesson that in politics we are concerned not with barren rights but with duties; not with abstract truth, but with morality. He especially eulogizes the way in which his efforts for economic reform. Burke combined unshakable resolution in pressing the reform with a profound temperateness of spirit which made him, while bent on the extirpation of the evil system, refuse to cherish an unreasoning and vindictive ill will toward the men who had benefited by it. Said Burke: "If I cannot reform with equity I will not reform at all. * * * (There is) a state to preserve as well as a state to reform."

This is the exact spirit in which this country should move to the reform of abuses of corporate wealth.

The wrongdoer, the man who swindles and cheats, whether on a big scale or a little one, shall receive at our hands mercy as scant as if he committed crimes of violence or brutality.

We are unalterably determined to prevent wrongdoing in the future; we have no intention of trying to wreak such an indiscriminate vengeance for wrongs done in the past as would confound the innocent with the guilty. Our purpose is to build up rather than to tear down.

We show ourselves the truest friends of property when we make it evident that we will not tolerate the abuses of property. We are steadily bent on preserving the institution of private property; we combat every tendency toward reducing the people to economic servitude; and we care not whether the tendency is due to a sinister agitation directed against all property, or whether it is due to the actions of those members of the predatory classes whose anti-social power is immeasuredly increased because of the very fact that they possess wealth.

Above all, we insist that while facing changed conditions and new problems, we must face them in the spirit which our forefathrs showed when they founded and preserved this Republic. The cornerstone of the Republic lies in our treating each man on his worth as a man, paying no heed to his creed, his birthplace, or his occupation, asking not whether he is rich or poor, whether he labors with head or hand; asking only whether he acts decently and honorably in the various relations of his life, whether he behaves well to his family, to his neighbors, to the State. We base our regard for each man on the essentials and not the accidents. We judge him not by his profession, but by his deeds; by his conduct, not by what he has acquired of this world's goods.

Other republics have fallen, because the citizens gradually grew to consider the interests of a class before the interests of the whole; for when such was the case it mattered little whether it was the poor who plundered the rich or the rich who exploited the poor; in either event the end of the Republic was at hand.

We are resolute in our purpose not to fall into such a pit. This great Republic of ours shall never become the government of a plutocracy, and it shall never become the government of a mob. God willing, it shall remain what our fathers who founded it meant it to be—a government in which each man stands on his worth as a man, where each is given the largest personal liberty consistent with securing the well-being of the whole, and where, so far as in us lies, we strive continually to secure for each man such equality of opportunity that in the strife of life he may have a fair chance to show the stuff that is in him.

We are proud of our schools and of the trained intelligence they give our children the opportunity to acquire.

But what we care for most is the character of the average man; for we believe that if the average of character in the individual citizen is sufficiently high, if he possesses those qualities which make him worthy of respect in his family life and in his work outside, as well as the qualities which fit him for success in the hard struggle of actual existence—that if such is the character of our individual citizenship, there is literally no height of triumph unattainable in this vast experiment of government by, of, and for a free people.

LITTLE BABY CURED OF ECZEMA

Parents Applied to Hospitals and Doctors but Could Get No Relief—Grew Worse Under Doctor's Prescription—Friends Recommended Cuticura—Result

A SPEEDY AND PERMANENT CURE

"We express to you herewith our best thanks for the cure of our baby from eczema. The eczema appeared when the child was three months old. We applied to several doctors and hospitals, each of which gave us something different every time, but nothing brought relief. A physician recommended a salve which we threw into the fire after two days' use as the eczema became worse so that the baby scratched his face. At last, one of our friends recommended to us Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. A few days afterwards improvement could be noted. Since then we have used nothing but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and now the baby is six months old and is quite cured. All that we used was one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes Cuticura Ointment, costing in all $1.25. Even the poorest man can pay that instead of throwing it into the doctor's lap. I myself only make twelve dollars a week as a teamster, but I recommend the Cuticura Remedies strongly to all mothers whose children suffer from such diseases. They are cheap, harmless and good. C. F. Kara and Wife, 343 East 65th Street, New York, March 30, 1906."

FOR SORE HANDS

Soak the hands on retiring, in a hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and in severe cases spread the Ointment on thin pieces of old linen or cotton. Wear during the night old, loose, kid gloves, with the finger ends cut off and holes cut in the palms, or a light bandage of old cotton.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Pills (Chocolate Coated, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Depots: London, Newbery, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, Roberts, 5 Rue de la Paix. "POLS" RESPLENDENT WILL GRACE JACKSON CLUB BALL

Mayor and His Countless Brothers to Mingle in the Joyous Throng in Charlestown To-night.

The political evening suit will be out in terrific force to-night when Judge Joe Corbett's pet institution, the Jackson Club of Ward 3, holds its fifth annual full dress parade and [illegible].

Taking it from the Judge, it's to be the [illegible]. All members are to wear white ties and [illegible] shoes.

It is assured that, when the festivities are at their dizzy height, which means when Mayor Fitzgerald has arrived and everyone knows [illegible] Hall, Charlestown, will contain not only the largest in point of numbers but the most distinguished and [illegible] collection of municipal [illegible] that ever assembled under one roof.

Senator [illegible] Mellen, president and one of the [illegible] Bowery. Senator Mellen, contrary to custom, is advertising no one [illegible] does not expect to appear. The proceeds of the ball, he announces, will be devoted to the smoke [illegible] during the [illegible]. Arrangements have been made for "Ned" [illegible] to address the club on "Free [illegible] as a Stepping Stone to Political Success," while Hon. Jeremiah J. McCarthy [illegible] of Charlestown [illegible] members on "The [illegible] Reform."

Mayor and Brothers Rally.

The Mayor will be the principal guest of the evening and Senator Mellen says that ought to be enough to attract any one.

Brother Henry, who married a Charlestown girl, is also expected to attend. He [illegible] the Jefferson [illegible] last week under the auspices of St. [illegible] Lyceum and wants to compare [illegible] Charlestown event with [illegible]. Brother Jim, who [illegible] in Boston but [illegible] three places in Charlestown, is also expected to drop around for a few minutes, while Brother Mike has been detailed for police duty at [illegible]. Brother Jim is quite a power in Charlestown politics. Besides his place on [illegible] street he [illegible] the old [illegible] House on Main street and has recently opened a third [illegible] at the corner of Park and [illegible] streets. [illegible] supervised the construction of the [illegible].

Brother Edward, who conducts an establishment on [illegible] has also been [illegible] to attend, as his Boston [illegible] whose brewery [illegible] furnish the major portion of the refreshments for the occasion. Brother Joe will attend if he can escape from his duties in the city bridge department for a few hours.

It will be a regular Fitzgerald family reunion, and [illegible] Thomas F. Fitzgerald, of Yale and Charlestown, will be a conspicuous figure. Brother Henry will bring his Assistant Superintendent of the Supply Department, Michael J. Mitchell, with him. "Mike" is a member of the club. He will doff his frock coat and don a tuxedo for the occasion.

Galaxy of City Stars.

Assessor Fred Temple is a member of the club, a $4000 salaried member, and will be around to [illegible] himself to the Mayor. His term does not expire until [illegible] but [illegible] people [illegible] the Mayor [illegible] taking no [illegible] chances. "Dr." William H. Hayes, of the Health Department, another $[illegible] member of the club, will also be present. Dr. Hayes owns a dress suit and will wear it to avoid having to loan it for the event. Dr. Hayes has prevailed upon Dr. Michael W. Norris, his colleague, to grace the ball with his presence.

Former Ward Committeeman Henry [illegible] ward and Former Representative [illegible] A. Sanderson, [illegible] Fred Temple [illegible] to [illegible] of the deeds of [illegible] performed [illegible] Charlestown Democracy of a generation ago. To show that there is no [illegible] feeling, Former Alderman Neil [illegible], Former Senator Peter Tague and Former Alderman John J. Mahoney, who represent the feeble opposition to Judge Corbett in the ward, will be admitted provided [illegible] Jim Shaw and his step-father [illegible] Mike are both [illegible] members and first connected with the city payroll as members of the club.

John J. O'Callaghan, secretary to the Board of Street Commissioners at $3,000 per year and one of the founders of the club, will be on hand. John is distinguished as the only City Hall reporter who ever connected with a city job with increased pay and decreased work. Francis J. Doherty, who formerly worked for Brother Ed Fitzgerald, but now draws $1,800 a year as deputy city collector, will add to the distinguished array of Ward 3 [illegible] as will John F. Waters, who inspects the [illegible] horses that the city is buying for the street department, or rather the horses that the city pays [illegible] per for.

Hold Up Ships To-night.

Vessels will be barred from passing through the draw of the Warren bridge to-night, as Drawtender William J. Alchorn and his first assistant, Thomas B. Pollard, will both be at the ball. A few foremen who will be present are John Crowley of the street department, Bernard F. Rogers of the distribution division of the water department, Patrick Kelly, foreman of the Charlestown district of the water department and [illegible] Quinn, sub-foreman of the Charlestown district of the sewer department. Joe Corbett will have them [illegible] up to give three cheers for "Little Johnny Fitz," and each will try hard to attract the attention of His Honor.

[illegible] Dunn, assistant janitor of City Hall and a loyal member of the [illegible], will be on hand. [illegible] resident of the [illegible] North End [illegible] if the opportunity presents [illegible] the Mayor of the fact [illegible] that he has been there [illegible] years [illegible] City Hall and gets but $15 per week. Another Ward 3 janitor in the person of Jim [illegible] of the [illegible] street bath house will [illegible] for the ball. Former Alderman "Eddie" Cauley, who was put down and out when he ran for re-election to the board last Fall, will get around to try and start a little boom for himself for next Fall.

"Larry" Sullivan, the new exalted ruler of Boston Lodge of Elks, who, it is reported, will break into politics next [illegible] with the backing of His Honor the Mayor, will desert his Rutherford avenue [illegible] for a few hours to trip the light fantastic and mix with the pols.

Councilman Joseph [illegible] Donovan, the club's secretary, and Treasurer Charles Sumner Sullivan will have their hands full. Upon them will devolve the duty of seeing that no wicked Peter Tague Democrats get in on last year's tickets. Constable Thomas A. Dunn, Charlestown's sheriff and brother of William Tell Dunn, will preserve decorum in the annex, which will be run on another floor of the building for special guests.

MOB POUNDS MOTORMAN

NEW YORK, April 26.—Transformed into a maddened mob by the sight of the terribly mutilated body of sixteen-year-old Edward Kelly, who had been ground to death under the wheels last night, the passengers of a Coney Island surface car beat into unconsciousness, and might have killed, the motorman, George Decker, but for the arrival of police reserves, who clubbed the infuriated men freely.

In the crowd was the father of the victim, who, until after he had been restored, was unaware that his son had been killed. When he learned the truth he fainted. The senseless motorman was hurried to a hospital, where he may die.

PRETTY WOMEN--By Beatrice Fairfax

Prettiness Is Not Always Real Beauty

The very fact that she is pretty ought to make a girl happy and contented.

Mother Nature has been kind to her daughter, and in return the daughter should look on life with happy, shining eyes.

Morbid speculations as to whether life is worth living, mystic peerings into the future, do not belong with happy, lovely girlhood.

In the picture shown the girl is undeniably pretty, but who likes to think of a pretty young girl in conjunction with a hideous, grinning skull?

Try and look on the bright, sane side of life, my pretty girls. There are so many primrose paths for your little feet to dance along. Keep away from the dark and sordid things.

In the May number of the Cosmopolitan is an article on "Pretty Woman in Photography," by Sadakichi Hartmann. It is illustrated by a number of extremely artistic photographs of pretty women and girls. With the exception of the one here given, they all look cheerful and normal.

But this little model evidently has "heaps of trouble on her mind." She is not satisfied with the mere joy of living. Her mind is not as healthy as her face.

Unhealthiness of mind is a bad thing, girls. It is like an ugly worm in the heart of a rose.

Read the article in the Cosmopolitan. It is written in the most chatty and readable way, and the photographs are charming.

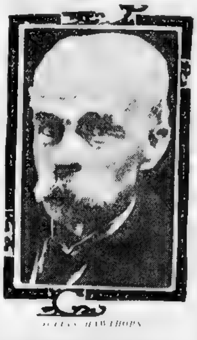
American Women Don't Get Enough Physical Exercise

By Julian Hawthorne



JULIAN HAWTHORNE

THE world can get along for a [illegible] just now is based on brain activity.

But the world would soon come to its end were women to become incapable of bringing children into it, and if their muscular energy falls below a certain standard they will at least become incapable of giving birth to children who are worth raising, which would be as bad as to stop altogether or worse.

It follows that it is more important that women should exercise their bodies than that men should.

The world can go on and its inhabitants can be happy in a condition of civilization much less intellectual than [illegible] were no [illegible] improved, the [illegible]

Examine Greek Statues

[illegible] men and of the waist and [illegible]

But nothing is so rare in the modern world as development in these regions of the body. A woman of our age often has strong legs and sometimes strong arms, but nearly all are weak in the waist and lower back, because hardly any exercise habitually taken by women gives any training to those parts.

Golf comes nearest to it, and you will find that women who play that game much and vigorously acquire [illegible] vital force than others, sit erect and carry themselves well without the help of corsets, and, if they become mothers, have healthier and stronger offspring than their non-golfing sisters.

Their waist muscles are firm and well-defined, and often you will find them deep-chested and sound-hearted, because they breathe deep and get a great deal of outdoor air.

All Can Exercise

ALL women have not opportunity to play golf, but almost any woman can take exercises which will have nearly or quite as good an effect upon her.

They should not be violent and they need not take much time and a very little of them, properly and, above all, regularly done, will make a really immense difference for the better in a woman's physical condition.

It is a mistake to think that arduous or constant exercise is necessary to health and strength in either man or woman, but moderate and regular exercise is indispensable if you wish to be and to remain well and vigorous.

It is not only or chiefly the increased muscle power that is valuable; it is the wholesome activity thus communicated to the great internal organs of the body.

Exercises that [illegible] the body as on a pivot, bending exercises forward and from side to [illegible] exercise and the exercise of lifting the rigid body from a prone position on the floor by straightening the arms, supporting the weight on the hands and toes, [illegible] these are [illegible] to women, and were they generally and regularly practiced would in a short time give us a much finer race of women than we have now, much better children, and much happier homes.

They would need but an hour or less a day, and the results they would bring about would be cheap at twenty times that expenditure of time and trouble.

Will not our women try it?

DIGS IN WOODS FOR BODY OF MARVIN BABY

Detective to Turn Over Soil of Neighbors' Farms in Missing Boy Search.

DOVER, Del., April 26.—"Little Horace Marvin is dead, and we expect to find his body." With these words Detective Lore of New Jersey indicated his belief, shared by many of the people, that the baby son of Dr. Horace N. Marvin of Bower's Beach, was killed instead of kidnapped, and that his body would be found on one of the farms in the neighborhood of his father's home.

Detective Lore will start immediately to dig for the body of the missing boy. He will first search the David Moore woods, where, Frank H. Butler, in his statement, told of stopping to fix a broken bolt, and where Caldwell, his companion, last remembers having seen the bag of "net corks."

Butler, charged with the murder of the Marvin child, was discharged from custody yesterday for lack of evidence. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Wood. State Detective Hawkins, who appeared on behalf of the State, asked that the prisoner be released, as there was not enough evidence to hold him.

"We have accomplished one thing," said Detective Lore. "We have stirred these detectives to renewed efforts, and they now realize that the matter is no joke, but a crime deserving of summary treatment. And if we stop they will bob up about two weeks later with the same line of procedure that we now have.

LABOR NEWS 96

Notice to Labor Unions.

Secretaries of labor organizations which take action upon the Brockton Central Labor Union's request that a State mass meeting of labor men be called and that the legislative recess committee be ignored by organized labor, are requested to inform the Labor Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN and to send him copies of all resolutions adopted in relation to this matter.

The following resolutions have been adopted by the Brockton Central Labor Union:

Whereas, the Brockton Central Labor Union and other unions in Massachusetts have denounced the scheme of a legislative recess committee on labor measures and pledged themselves to use every effort in their election districts to defeat those who would not aid us in securing decisive consideration by the present Legislature, as voted by our State convention in Lawrence; now, therefore, be it resolved;

Ask Conference.

That we request the Executive Committee of the State Branch, A. F. of L., to call into conference delegates from all Central Labor Unions and all local unions and all other labor organizations in Massachusetts, as we did on the overtime bill, to consider what attitude organized labor shall assume toward the said recess committee and legislators responsible for it, and to advance the work of organizing in election districts to protect the interests of the work producers politically, and, pending the action by such a conference and subject to it, we hold that,

A Dignified Attitude.

Inasmuch as organized labor was foremost and unanimous in its declaration that it did not want a recess committee and would politically oppose those who favored it, a consistent, dignified and upper-hand attitude for labor to assume would be to repudiate the recess committee and its supporters and refuse to attend its sessions or to give it any countenance whatever.

It was voted to send a copy of these resolutions to other central bodies in Massachusetts and to invite action by other unions who might in any way read a copy of these resolutions.

$1,000 BLAZE IN SPRING LANE

A fire in the two-story wooden building, No. 13 Spring Lane, occupied as a restaurant by George Murdock and Joseph Tierney, caused a loss of $1,000 and threatened the Old South office building.

Firemen knocked out the plate glass in the Spring lane entrance to the Old South building and carried lines of hose up to the fourth floor. The firemen had a hard task in ripping down the metal ceiling, and it was found that the flames were making rapid progress. Ladderman Dacey of Ladder Company No. 1 stepped on a nail which punctured his foot. He was sent to the Relief Station.

TAFT NIPPED IN BUD STRIKE OF CANAL MEN

Took Demand "Under Advisement" and Then Sailed Away.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Secretary Taft nipped in the bud a threatened strike for higher wages while he was at Panama. The details of the affair have just become known.

Shortly after his arrival the steam shovel men, who get $210 per month, six weeks' leave with pay annually, free quarters, free medical attendance, one month's sick leave and one month's injury leave with pay, asked that their salary be increased to $300. The Secretary said that he would go over the merits and demerits of the case, whereupon the spokesman of the men declared that he would have to decide the question then and there or a strike would be called.

In reply Mr. Taft merely said that if that was the attitude of the men the conference was at an end.

Others of the delegation interfered, and it was decided to give the Secretary an opportunity to examine the case thoroughly. He left the Isthmus without rendering a decision, and the steam shovels are still working uninterruptedly.

He will make a recommendation to the President in the matter.

KENNEBEC IS FALLING.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 26.—After reaching a height of seven feet five inches on the Kennebec Dam, the Kennebec River began to recede, and is falling steadily at the rate of a foot in ten hours.

RYAN MAY BUY FRISCO RAILWAY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Negotiations for the purchase of the United Railroads have been in progress for the last month and the sale of the street railway properties in San Francisco may be consummated at an early date. Three representatives of Eastern capitalists have been in this city conducting a thorough investigation of the system.

H. E. Huntington has been mentioned as a probable purchaser. He has just returned from the East, and it is rumored that he has determined to renew his connection with traction interests in San Francisco. Thomas F. Ryan, who has been active in acquiring traction properties throughout the country, is mentioned as a possible investor.

REPTILE WAS FOND OF BROOK TROUT

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 26.—Thomas Von Trump, a farmer living in Katteiville, this county, on Sunday, heard a commotion in a small brook that runs past his house. The water was being churned and splashed in every direction.

Upon going to the brook Von Trump found a large black snake on the bank, close to the water's edge, with a good-sized trout in its mouth. The snake seemed to be trying to swallow the trout, but it was too big for the reptile. Von Trump killed the snake with a club and liberated the fish, which, after much difficulty, managed to swim away.

Umpires—Connolly and Evans.

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

George Huff, the new manager of the Boston Americans, will soon, perhaps today, make his first change in the line-up of his men. He has been carefully watching the team since Friday and has come to the conclusion that it is unwise to allow such a strong batsman as Grimshaw to remain on the bench especially at a time when the whole team is hitting poorly.

Grimshaw will be tried in the outfield, a positon he had some experience in when he played with the Eastern League. He will go to right field, relieving Freddie Paent, who will be moved back to his old place at shortstop.

Wagner to Be Benched.

These changes will, of course, throw Charlie Wagner to the bench. There is no fault to be found with the youngster's fielding, but he has proven woefully weak with the stick and there are good judges who say he will never bat any better than he has shown since the season opened.

If the new order of things works out well Wagner will be kept as a utility infielder, occupying the same kind of a place that Unglaub had when he was with the team two years ago.

The new arrangement ought to strengthen the batting department of the team not a little. There is no doubt but that Grimshaw can sting the ball when he is feeling right and the team sadly needs a man who can break up a game with a three-bagger or home run.

Hoey May Be Moved.

There is likely to be another change in the batting order. John Hoey seems to be badly placed, where he is now fourth on the list. He is a first-class bunter, and is a very fast man in getting down to first. It would seem that he either ought to be placed second on the list where he could advance Sullivan with a sacrifice, or moved down to fifth or sixth place, there to take his chances.

If Hoey were to be placed second that would move Collins down a peg, where he belongs. It has seemed a mistake all along to the writer to place Collins second, as a batsman of his ability should not be called upon to sacrifice as often as the second man up is required for this sort of work. He belongs further down the list, where he has more of a chance to line 'em out.

Manager Huff is thinking out all these problems, and, as stated above, there will be changes made in a short time, either today or after the Philadelphia series.

It was rumored to-day that the Boston Americans were trying to land Congalton, the clever left fielder of the Cleveland club. This man batted above .300 last season and is a fast fielder. No confirmation of the rumor could be secured from the Boston club officials.

BOB UNGLAUB WILL BE THE PILGRIM'S CAPTAIN

Robert Unglaub, the first baseman of the Boston American League team was to-day appointed captain of the club. This action was the result of a conference between President Taylor and Manager Huff.

Cy Young has been acting-captain of the team ever since March 29, but the duties were not to his liking and he has asked several times to be relieved. The question of choosing a permanent field captain has been troubling Messrs. Taylor and Huff for several days and it was not an easy matter to make a selection.

Besides the fact that Young did not want the position, there were other reasons for making a chance, the principal one being that it is necessary to have a regular player for field leader. Young, being a pitcher, is not in the game more than twice a week at the most.

Unglaub, it is thought, will make a good man for the position. He is a great ball player and knows the game as well as anybody in the league. He is an earnest worker, playing ball all the time. This will be bound to carry the respect of the other players on the team. tI is the opinion of those wel informed that the club made the best possible selection.

DOVES' FINAL GAME IN BROOKLYN TO-DAY

BATTING ORDER.

Umpires—Klem and Emslie.

BROOKLYN, April 26.—The Boston Nationals will conclude their series in this city with to-day's game. To-night they will leave for Philadelphia, where they have only one game scheduled. Pfeffer will probably pitch for the Doves and McIntyre for the locals.

The Bostons had an easy time winning yesterday, 6 to 1. Lindaman allowed but five hits, while Pastorious of the Dodgers was found for twelve. The locals' only run was the result of a base on balls.

AUTO CLUB WILL HOLD SEALED BONNET TOUR

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Automobile Club of America is to hold on June 19, 20, 21 and 22 a sealed bonnet automobile tour. This should be of some real benefit not only to the manufacturer, but also to the purchasers of automobiles.

In this contest the idea of the committee in charge of the affair is to show to what a state of efficiency the modern motor car has been brought and how near foolproof the automobile is to-day. With this idea in view, the Bonnet and all parts thereunder, transmission, gears, axles wheels, coil boxes, etc., will be sealed by the committee and no adjustments, repairs or replacements of any kind other than tires will be allowed during the period of the contest. Supplies of gasoline, lubricants and water may be taken on without restriction.

Another interesting feature of this tour is that the cars will be classified on a price-basis, and a different rate of speed is required for each class. The classification and rules are as follows:

Class A—Stock cars complete, without tops, listed at $3,000 and over.

Class B—Stock cars complete, without tops, listed at over $1,500 and less than $3,000.

Class C—Stock cars complete, without tops, listed at $1,500 and under.

DISTANCE.

The contest will cover four days, and the distance to be traveled will be 150 miles per day, or a total of 600 miles, for cars in all classes, excepting runabouts in Class A, which will be required to cover 175 miles per day, or a total of 700 miles.

Each day's run will start and finish at the clubhouse in New York.

Each car must be equipped with an odometer.

The cars will be placed in the custody of the committee in the club garage at the end of each day's run.

SPEED.

The cars will be required to make each day's run as follows:

Class A—At a minimum average speed of 18 miles per hour.

Class B—At a minimum average speed of 19 miles per hour.

Class C—At a minimum average speed of 14 miles per hour.

Runabouts in Class B will be required to make the same minimum average as touring cars in Class A—viz., 8 miles per hour.

Cars violating the legal speed limits will be disqualified.

OBSERVERS.

Each entrant will be obliged to furnish a competent technical observer who will be assigned to a car other than that of the entrant. Assignments of observers will be changed each day.

AWARDS.

A silver cup will be awarded the winner in each class, and certificates of performance will be issued to all entrants who desire them.

The first day's run, it is said, will be up the Hudson to Poughkeepsie; the second day's run along the Sound up to New Haven, probably; the third day's run up to Mt. Kisco and the final day's run a combination of two of the previous routes.

* * *

The Long Island Automobile Club has returned to the fold of the A. A. A. This club withdrew from the A. A. A. last year because of the inactivity of the national association, but reforms agitated at that time by the club having recently been taken up by the association, the Long Island Club felt in duty bound to assist the same by returning to the ranks of the A. A. A. The Long Island Automobile Club is admittedly one of the most enterprising and active in this country, and has always been to the front in matters pertaining to the sport.

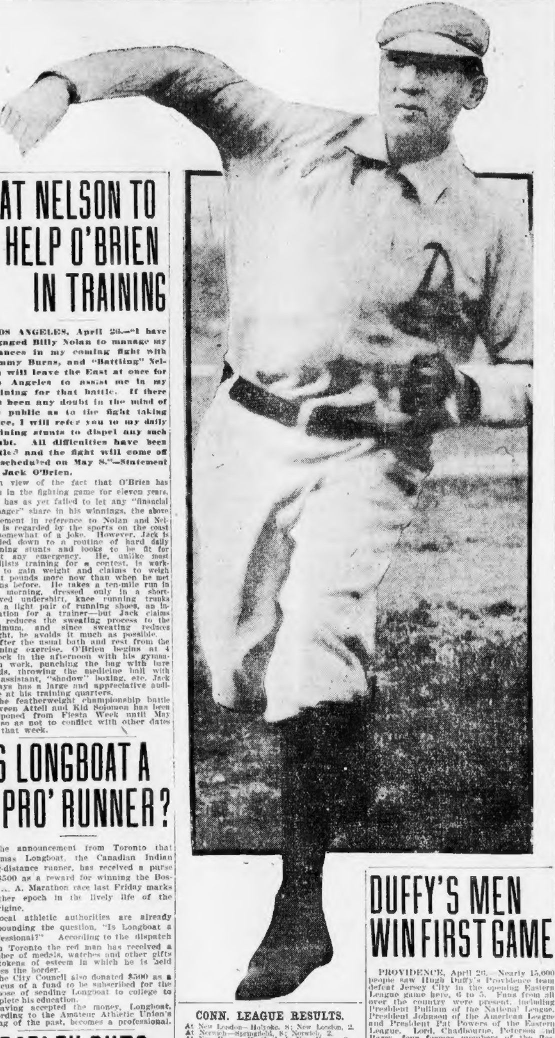
George Kehew, sales manager of the Moon, is spending a few days in this city as the guest of V. A. Nielsen, manager of the Metropolitan Automobile Company. Mr. Kehew says that the work at the Moon factory is progressing rapidly and with excellent results.



CHIEF BENDER OF ATHLETICS.

BAT NELSON TO HELP O'BRIEN IN TRAINING

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—"I have engaged Billy Nolan to manage my finances in my coming fight with Tommy Burns, and "Battling" Nelson will leave the East at once for Los Angeles to assist me in my training for that battle. If there has been any doubt in the mind of the public as to the fight taking place, I will refer you to my daily training stunts to dispel any such doubt. All difficulties have been settled and the fight will come off as scheduled on May 8."—Statement by Jack O'Brien.

In view of the fact that O'Brien has been in the fighting game for eleven years, and has as yet failed to let any "financial manager" share in his winnings, the above statement in reference to Nolan and Nelson is regarded by the sports on the coast as somewhat of a joke. However, Jack is settled down to a routine of hard daily training stunts and looks to be fit for most any emergency. He, unlike most pugilists training for a contest, is working to gain weight and claims to weigh eight pounds more now than when he met Burns before. He takes a ten-mile run in the morning, dressed only in a short-sleeved undershirt, knee running trunks and a light pair of running shoes, an innovation for a trainer—but Jack claims this reduces the sweating process to the minimum, and since sweating reduces weight, he avoids it much as possible.

After the usual bath and rest from the morning exercise, O'Brien begins at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with his gymnasium work, punching the bag with bare hands, throwing the medicine ball with his assistant, "shadow" boxing, etc. Jack always has a large and appreciative audience at his training quarters.

The featherweight championship battle between Attell and Kid Solomon has been postponed from Fiesta Week until May 24, so as not to conflict with other dates for that week.

IS LONGBOAT A 'PRO' RUNNER?

The announcement from Toronto that Thomas Longboat, the Canadian Indian long-distance runner, has received a purse of $500 as a reward for winning the Boston ... A. Marathon race last Friday marks another epoch in the lively life of the aborigine.

Local athletic authorities are already propounding the question, "Is Longboat a professional?" According to the dispatch from Toronto the red man has received a number of medals, watches and other gifts as tokens of esteem in which he is held across the border.

The City Council also donated $500 as a nucleus of a fund to be subscribed for the purpose of sending Longboat to college to complete his education.

Having accepted the money, Longboat, according to the Amateur Athletic Union's ruling of the past, becomes a professional.

BRADLEY PUTS JEFFORDS AWAY

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Jim Jeffords was knocked out by Fred Bradley in the third round of their bout at the Broadway A. C. The former was never in the going, Bradley hammering him unmercifully before the finishing touch was given.

Important to Athletes.

Beginning Sunday, Julian Hawthorne will write a series of articles for the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. They will be especially interesting and important to amateur athletes and health-seekers in New England.

ANSWER TO QUERY.

I. L.—In the "catch low" game A scores two points. In the "play low" game A scores one point and B one. Agreement is usually made before the game whether it shall be "catch low" or not. In the catch low game the point for "low" goes to the player capturing the lowest trump out. In the "play low" game the point for "low" goes to the one playing the lowest trump, which simply means the person to whom "low" is dealt in the first place. The "play low" game makes the "low point" purely arbitrary. In "catch low" the player holding "low" has to fight for it, making the game more interesting. If no agreement is made before a game it is generally understood to-day that "catch low" goes.

DUFFY'S MEN WIN FIRST GAME

PROVIDENCE, April 26.—Nearly 15,000 people saw Hugh Duffy's Providence team defeat Jersey City in the opening Eastern League game here, 6 to 5. Fans from all over the country were present, including President Pulliam of the National League, President Johnson of the American League and President Pat Powers of the Eastern League. Lord, Chadbourne, Peterson and Barry, four former members of the Boston Americans, played with the Grays.

*Belmont entry.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, April 26.—Fine weather to-day should bring out a crowd of 25,000 here to see the running of the $10,000 Excelsior Handicap, one mile and a sixteenth. In the entries sent out by Secretary Walter C. Edwards were sixteen starters, but in all probability about ten horses will go to the post at 4 o'clock. It was said at Aqueduct yesterday that Dishabille, Glorifier, Cairngorm, Pretension and Don Diego would not face the barrier, while James R. Keene's Philander was a doubtful starter. Boiled down, the Excelsior should provide a most interesting and exciting horse race.

As far as public form goes, R. F. Carman's W. H. Carey, the California horse that has made a clean sweep here in three races, will be the favorite. He carries 110 pounds, and Koerner was engaged to ride him yesterday, as August Belmont has a call on the services of Mountain. If Don Diego does not go, Mountain, who cannot make the weight for Okenite, may ride Carey after all, in which event the horse's chances will be greatly increased. The quick, sharp turns and the short homestretch may prove obstacles in the way of Carey, some persons think, but that will not prevent the public from backing him.

JACK JOHNSON DOING WELL

Jack Johnson's tour of Australia, under Alex MacLean's management, has proved a success in every respect. In all parts of the antipodean continent he has been greeted with honors and applause, and so far as his ring opponents are concerned his path has been very rosy.

He has had two battles and knocked out both of his men inside of ten rounds each.

While unable to get on a match with Bill Squires, the heavyweight champion of Australia who sailed for this country just as Johnson arrived, the colored heavyweight champion is determined to come back and force him into a match.

Johnson has no reasons to regret his long trip, as he has picked up considerable money between his fights and his exhibitions in the Australian theatres.

7000 BUTCHERS VOTE CENSURE FOR ROOSEVELT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 26.—President Roosevelt is due to receive the following message to-day from the 7,000 union butchers in New York city:

"You may be able to judge your associate, Mr. Harriman, but you had no right to judge men whom you knew nothing about."

The butchers refer to Moyer and Haywood, on trial in Idaho charged with the murder of Governor Steunenburg, and whom the President characterized as "undesirable citizens."

At a meeting of the butchers' joint council last night it was decided to send the above message to President Roosevelt, and to order the 7,000 members of the union to join in the labor demonstration May 4 on behalf of Moyer and Haywood, who were the heads of the Western Miners' Union.

STORERS WILL LIVE IN BOSTON

Hon. and Mrs. Bellamy Storer, formerly of Cincinnati, and of Roosevelt-Storer controversy fame, are to become citizens of Boston. The estate numbered 164 Marlboro street, corner of Dartmouth street, has been leased by Francis B. Crowninshield, the owner, to the Storers, and Mrs. Storer is expected to arrive in Boston about the first of June to put the house in shape for the return of her husband from Italy in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Storer are devout Catholics and are personal friends of Archbishop O'Connell, coadjutor of the archdiocese of Boston.

FRIENDS HONOR NOTED 'CELLIST

Chickering Hall was crowded last night with admiring friends of Alwin Schroeder at the farewell concert of the famous 'cellist. Mr. Schroeder was assisted in presenting an interesting program by his daughter, Miss Elfriede Schroeder, soprano, and Ernst Perabo, H. G. Tucker and Max Zach, pianists.

Mr. Tucker, on behalf of the 'cellist's friends, presented to him a wreath of honor and a handsome silver pitcher. Mr. Schroeder, who is going to Frankfort-on-the-Main to live, will have reason to remember with pride and pleasure the final tribute of his Boston admirers.

THE MAN---THE MALADY

The man who is suffering from any one of those complex diseases or ailments which ordinary medical skill is powerless to cure owes it to himself and his family and friends to seek at once the means, the methods and the man who can speedily restore him to a state of perfect health and usefulness.

He may be afflicted with

BLOOD POISON
NERVOUS DEBILITY
STRICTURE VARICOCELE
PILES FISTULA

Or any of the other weaknesses which spoil the happy life of the man who is afflicted.

THE PHYSICIAN---THE CURE

The physician who has learned by careful special study and practice, the cause, the character and the cure of these obstinate and intricate maladies of man—is far better able to effect a speedy, permanent and perfect cure than is the general practitioner who meets them but seldom. PIANO TRUST STILL FIGHTING US

Because we will not agree to keep up their high prices on pianos. At present the law seems to be with us. Nothing has yet been legally done to stop us selling at any old price. While we have a piano to dispose of we will enter it in our weekly sacrifice sale—Piano Trust or no Piano Trust.

In the past week many excellent piano values were given. Some of the finest upright pianos were sold at startlingly low prices. This week's lot is a trifle larger and better—on account of the nature of the sale, it being a storage salesroom sale, new and second hand pianos of the best makers are sacrificed—the prices are made subject to conditions which do not include any agents' commissions, sellers' commissions or any additional profit to the storage salesroom whatever. In sales like these some one's loss is your gain. The profit is all yours—the finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

GLEN ECHO LAKE
NO. STOUGHTON, 14 MILES OUT.

WATER FRONT LOTS, $200
ONE-ACRE FARMS, $100
CAMP LOTS, $50

LOTS, $5, $10 AND $15
$2 DOWN, $1 A WEEK

AT THIS picturesque lake of pure spring water, this gem of magnificent beauty dropped amid the hills and rugged crags of the Ponkapoag Indian Reservation, the Electric Road has the finest pine grove in the State; large hotel, dancing pavilion, bowling alley and bath houses. Across the lake, the sacred grove of the Indians, beside their great god Manitou, in the new village of Glen Echo, that sprang up like a mushroom and is growing like a Western mining town. Stores will be built this season, and probably fifty more cottages. Over $20,000 worth of land sold to hundreds of people.

I now have 200 acres of Ponkapoag Indian Reservation. The last purchase of fifty acres is perhaps the most picturesque region in the State, where wild nature has been untouched by the hand of man; an ideal spot for camping, in the primeval wilderness, in the sheltering shade of the forest glades. Here are high hills and deep vales, shady pools, rippling brooks, roaring waterfalls and ice-cold springs—the medicine springs of the Indians—issuing from the base of the great bluff in which stands the mighty god Jouskeba. The face of the divine one is chiseled by the hand of time in the immortal granite cliff, and above, on the very summit, stands the massive altar of the Red Man, weighing thousands of tons, dropped there 25,000 years ago in the glacial epoch. From this great boulder, in old times, the signal fires of the Indians flashed the call to arms to fight the Puritan marauders.

Twenty-five dollars bonus to those who build. Free excursion every Sunday at 12. BARTLETT, 80 Court st.

President Eliot's Speech—READ IT

And Then Watch Your Senator and Representative

Every man in Massachusetts should read President Eliot's speech at Faneuil Hall yesterday in behalf of the Public Opinion bill.

Some of our readers may have read it in the late editions of yesterday's AMERICAN, but it won't hurt them to read it again.

The Public Opinion bill is the most important bill in behalf of the people that has been introduced at this session of the Legislature.

Senator Lodge, boss of the Republican party, has ordered it killed—BECAUSE, IF IT IS ENACTED INTO LAW, IT MAY DEPRIVE HIM OF HIS PLACE as United States Senator and State Boss.

This newspaper does not always agree with President Eliot, but certainly no one can accuse him of being "socialistic" or "revolutionary."

He believes in a public opinion law BECAUSE IT PROMOTES REAL POPULAR GOVERNMENT and renders hard the way of the bosses (like Lodge) and reduces the power of money to control legislation.

Every honest, patriotic and intelligent American will agree with him on the necessity of stopping the present reign of money through secret influence.

Let every man read this speech AND THEN WATCH THE SENATOR AND THE REPRESENTATIVE FROM HIS DISTRICT TO SEE HOW HE VOTES ON THE PUBLIC OPINION BILL.

"THE promoters of this meeting took a risk when they asked me to speak here without in the least knowing what I was going to say. They took a risk because I am not a practical political man. I am an academic person, and you know that that is a word of reproach with practical men, both in politics and industries.

"I am academic—an academic man who had a scientific training when he was young and through his early manhood.

"Now the academic and scientific person may be theoretical, but he holds a theory and holds it on the basis of careful observation of fact and a careful record of fact, and the theory which he holds on the subject now under discussion is a theory based on careful observation of American political life for the last fifty years and on a pretty good memory of facts thus observed.

"I am not a practical politician. I am not a lawyer. I am not experienced in the drafting of bills. Therefore, I am not prepared to say that the present form of the Public Policy bill is in all respects just the best.

"I am not sure that 5,000 voters is the right number of voters to sign the petition. Perhaps 10,000 would be better. I am not sure that four subjects may practically be submitted to the voters at the same election. Perhaps two or three would be better. These are features which I feel should be left to the wisdom of the Legislature.

"But I am sure of one thing—namely, that this is a bill to bring about an open public influence in behalf of legislation. That is the main motive and purpose of the bill—to bring about an open public influence on legislation.

"Now what is the great crying evil in American political life for the last forty years? Secret influence, fellow-citizens. (Applause.) That is the great crying evil concerning legislative and administrative bodies.

"We sometimes think that we have a great security for the expression of public opinion through the public press. Does that work freely to-day? We all of us know that the public press is subject to innumerable bad secret influences. How about our legislative bodies? Do we not all know what the money power over legislators is and how it is exercised?

"In secret, by the personal efforts of interested men to procure legislation which will subserve their interests or to prevent legislation which they believe will damage their interests.

"The development of the money power in this country has been tremendous, within my clear remembrance. How about working committees of our public bodies? Committee work is open to an unusual public influence of opinion through hearings.

"It is all the time subject to private secret influences of interested bodies, highly, organized, more and more highly organized as we go on, bringing secret pressure to bear on the committees themselves, electing members of legislatures through secret influences, organizing legislatures and committees of legislatures, that they may serve the private influences involved.

"These things are perfectly well known. Every intelligent American citizen knows how these private secret influences are brought to bear on American legislators.

"They tell us that the present bill degrades senators and representatives, because it looks forward to the expression of thousands and perhaps millions of voters giving voice at the general election to their views on public matters. Is that the way in which American legislators are degraded in these days?

"No. They never are, and never have been. Where American legislators are degraded in these days is by submission to machines.

"What is a political machine? A private organization for the promotion of the interests of a party, or of a politician, or of a group of politicians. That is what a machine is. It does not work in public, fellow-citizens. It works in secrecy. It gets its funds, its money, in secrecy, and a deal of money they get for secret uses.

"Now, we are told, too, that wrong-motived organizations can get control of the petitioning voters, of the voters expressing their opinions at the elections. How about the control of bosses and managers and chairmen of committees under the present methods of operation of our legislatures?

"Is not their control exercised in efficient ways now? Will it be easier or harder to get up a petition of 5,000 voters in Massachusetts for the promotion of a particular bill? It will be harder, a great deal, for the bosses and managers than it is now.

"How about the value of the expression and influence of thousands of voters at an election, as compared with the significance of the expression which is now secured through the bosses and managers of associations and clubs under our present system?

"Isn't the expression of the voters at an election on a particular subject, carefully put before them, sure to be more correct and a juster expression of public opinion than what we get now?

"It seems to me that this cannot for a moment be denied. I hold, therefore, in an academic way, to be sure, that any free, open public expression, publicly voiced, is to be welcomed as affording a chance for deliverance from the methods that are at present being brought to bear upon our legislators.

"And now, fellow-citizens, we hear a great and familiar cry—'this is a revolutionary measure; this is a radical measure; this is a socialistic, an anarchistic measure. Let the conservative people of the Commonwealth beware!'

"That, fellow-citizens, is the most fundamental of all doubts concerning the working of a democracy. Has America been revolutionary in times past? Is not free democracy the most conservative government in the world?

"Because it is builded, first, on public justice, then on public freedom, then on the diffusion of opportunity and all other evidences of public well being. That is the reason why a free government is the most conservative government in the world.

"Which is the most conservative, Russia or the United States? Which is the most socialistic, anarchistic—Russia or the United States? Which was the most conservative, the French monarchy or the French revolution? Verily, it was the revolution which was the most conservative of great public interests."

Voices of the Sea

By Wex Jones

"Right" and "left" should be substituted for "starboard" and "port."—New York Board of Trade.

'TWAS the bosun's mate, who, most sedate,
Spun yarns of hemp and tar
And barques and brigs between the swigs,
As he leaned on the Dewey bar.

I'VE sailed the sea twenty years (says he)
From the Horn to the bloomin' Cape,
But in all my time in every clime
This here is the maddest jape.
'Twill be grand sport, instead of "port"
To say "Please turn to the right,"
And it knocks me cold to think the "hold"
Will be "down in the basement, quite."
More nice and soft than "'Way aloft"
Is "Kindly walk upstairs,"
And as "janitor" the "captain" or
The "mate" will put on airs;
While the sailor men will be signed on then
As "parlor" or "chamber maids,"
And rope won't be blemished with words like "flemished,"
But neatly "done up in braids."
And right in the neck for words like "deck,"
Which of course will be "roof" or "floor,"
And the vulgar "bow" that's mentioned now
Will be "front end" afloat and ashore.
The expression "lee scuppers" will end on its uppers
And be changed to the "sheltered side drain."
'Vast heavin' (says he) "Please stop" will be,
And "cable" be dropped for "chain";
"Veranda" will scoop the old-time "poop,"
"Eight bells" will be "Twelve o'clock";
And the old A. B. who hears "grog" called "tea"
Will founder at once from the shock.

'TWAS a timely hint, and I didn't stint
To order two tots of rum,
Which helped to elate the bosun's mate,
So sadly depressed and glum.

WELL I MUST BE GOING NOW, I HOPE MY VISIT HAS DONE YOU GOOD, I WILL RUN OVER AND CHEER UP MRS SMITH, SO, TA TA, OVER THE RIVER

COMFORTING A SICK FRIEND

"On Duty"

By Rabbi Charles Fleischer

SERGEANT WELLINGTON T. COOKE of Company M, Eighth Infantry, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, has been blazoned among the heroes of peace. Sad fate for a would-be warrior!

His home, West Somerville, should now be enrolled among the showplaces of the earth. In time it will become a place of pilgrimage and help to make Boston famous.

And the Grandsires of American Evolution (therewith founded) should mark with commemorative tablet a certain inspiring spot in Westfield, Mass., and inscribe it with the name of Sergeant Cooke and a line from the poet Wordsworth's "Ode to Duty."

Pardon these joyful tears! They are loyal, legal tears, called forth in fact by solemn act of the Legislature. By a vote of 71 to 42 (jeers for the faithless 42—and cheers for the patriotic 71) our lawmakers hail Sergeant Cooke as a hero. And they vote him $500 to reimburse him for his heroism.

Heroes are cheap at $500 per. Let us have more of them—80,000,000 or so!

Milton was right.

> "Peace hath her victories
> No less renowned than war."

You see, it was this way: Our West Somerville hero, in his capacity of sergeant in our State militia, was on dress parade with his company one Summer's day in 1905. The shades of night were falling reluctantly, unwilling to shut out the sight of so much manly beauty on duty.

Thousands of spectators were throbbing with the right emotion as they gazed, awestruck, upon the statuesque forms of the Commonwealth's untried, but willing-to-fight soldiery.

A fateful moment for Sergeant Cooke and his fellow-warriors, and for the afore-quoted John Milton, blind seer, yet foreseeing this moment big with fate.

Up waltzed a jolly kissing bug—or was it another germ-laden monster of the air?—and made straight for the serried ranks, headed by the undaunted Cooke.

With unerring aim it made a "bee-line" (it may even have been a wasp-line) for the nose of our soon-to-be-sung hero. And there it hung and sung and stung! And then it stung and sung and hung!! Also it sung and hung and stung!!!

Think you our sergeant quailed under the insidious attack? Think you he lifted gun or hand, or turned a hair? If you do, you know not the stuff of which the Massachusetts volunteer is made.

Not only the ages were looking down upon him, but unseen eyes of minute men of Lexington and Concord and the seen and seeing eyes of the fair daughters of Massachusetts were levelled upon the defenders of the State on dress parade duty.

Doubtless, there flashed before the inner vision of the sergeant scenes of carnage in which he might have been the eager hero, fields of battle on which he caught the cannon balls as blithely as he used to catch baseballs on the open lots. This playful fate the Fates denied him.

Perhaps, with inner sight he saw his name even ahead of that of Abou-ben-Adhem (which once "led all the rest") on a new roll of Carnegie made-to-order heroes.

It is possible there was blood in his eye, murder in his heart, unprintable language on his tongue. But he winced not, neither did he budge. To move or wink an eyelash would be to spoil the dress parade.

The Commonwealth expects every man to do his duty. Sergeant Cooke "seen his duty, and he done it."

While the bug hung and sung and stung, our gallant warrior (as becomes a Massachusetts soldier, scholar and stoic) solaced his suffering soul by inward, copious quotation from Wordsworth's Ode:

> "Stern daughter of the voice of God!
> Oh, Duty! If that name thou love,
> Who art a light to guide, a rod
> To check the erring, and reprove;
> Thou who art victory and law
> When empty terrors overawe," etc., etc.

All terrors are empty to the Massachusetts soldier thus fortified. The sergeant held his ground; the dress parade was a success; the Commonwealth was saved!

The rest of the story is but weariness and sorrow, and the aftermath merely sordidness and prose.

As the result of his heroism while on duty, Sergeant Cooke found himself seriously poisoned, for three months incapacitated for work, and for five months condemned to untoward intimacy with his physician.

Our State would not let the soldier suffer loss, who was ready to sacrifice not simply life but beauty on the sacred altar of duty. We are always looking for "veterans" to pension and exempt.

To me the very thought of the gallant sergeant is an inspiration to deeds of untellable bravery. It has been a privilege thus to sing his praises, to drop a joyous, loyal tear and to express appreciation of a Legislature that knows a hero when it sees one.

The name of Wellington Cooke deserves to become at least as classic as that of the mere conqueror of Napoleon, who shares only half of the name and deserves only half as much fame.

SGT. COOKE.

SAY GIRLS, IT'S GETTING WET. I THINK WE HAD BETTER FIND SHELTER IN THIS OLD HOUSE TILL IT HOLDS UP A BIT.
A GOOD SCHEME!
1
OH-I'M SO AFRAID OF GHOSTS! I WONDER IF THIS OLD HOUSE IS HAUNTED.
AW DON'T BE AFRAID I GUESS WE THREE MEN ARE ENOUGH TO PROTECT YOU GIRLS FROM ALL THE GHOSTS THAT EVER WALKED.
GHOSTS ARE ONLY DISORDERED IMAGINATIONS ANYHOW.
ISN'T IT CREEPY HERE!
2
YES, SPEAKING OF GHOSTS, REMEMBER FERDIE OUR EXPERIENCE IN THAT OLD CASTLE ON THE RHINE? GEE-WEREN'T THE LADIES FRIGHTENED, AND IF IT WASN'T FOR MY PRESENCE OF MIND, I DON'T KNOW WHAT WOULD HAVE HAPPENED. WE WERE EXPLORING THE RIGHT WING OF THE CASTLE, WHEN, OUT FROM ONE OF THE DIM RECESSES, THERE CAME A DEEP SEPULCHRAL GRO-O-OAN
MOO-OO-OO
W-WHAT'S THAT!
3
IT'S STOPPED RAINING, LET'S GO.
NOW HALL-ROOM, IT'S UP TO US TO UNRAVEL THE MYSTERY OF THOSE STRANGE GHOSTLY SOUNDS, YOU FERDIE. EXPLORE THIS ROOM AND PERCY MIGHT TRY THE NEXT, WHILE I AND THE GIRLS WILL DO THE OTHER SIDE. COME PERCY, YOU'RE NOT AFRAID. BE A SPORT.
4
HA! HA! BOTH DOORS LEAD INTO THE SAME ROOM-LISTEN! THEY'VE RUN INTO EACH OTHER! HEAR THEM YELL! SQUEEZE OUT A FEW GROANS GIRLS, WHILE I RATTLE THE CHAIN.
BOO-OO-O!
S-S-S S'DEATH! GR-R-R!
HELP! A GHOST! HE'S GOT ME!
WOUGH! S'SAVE ME! H'HELP!
5
HELLO BOYS. FIND THE GHOST? WHY YOU LOOK FRIGHTENED. HA! HA! IT WAS ONLY THE COW!
